

Reading Japanese with a Smile

Nine Stories from a Japanese Weekly Magazine for Intermediate Learners

TOM GALLY

COMMENTARY

7a

Title: バン国^{こくめざ}目指すコネ社員^{しゃいん}の無知蒙昧^{むちもうまい}

語 バン国 Bankoku the country of Ban / 目指す mezasu to aim for; to intend to go to / コネ connection / 社員 shain company employee / 無知蒙昧 muchi-mōmai ignorance

注 As the story explains, バン国 is a misinterpretation of バンコク "Bangkok." / The slanted line (`) above the character 国 in the title on p. 130 indicates emphasis. See also 5a. / 目指す modifies 社員. / コネ is an abbreviation for コネクション, that is, a relative or friend who can provide special assistance or access. A コネ社員 is an employee who got her job through a personal introduction instead of the usual hiring process. (A typical コネ社員 might be the child of a former classmate of the company president.) / 無知 muchi means "no knowledge" and 蒙昧 mōmai "darkness; ignorance." 無知蒙昧 thus means "the depths of ignorance."

7b

とない おおてしゅつばんしゃ きんむ ケイじょう にじゅうよん
都内の大手出版社に勤務するK嬢(二四)ほ
どうき じよせいよ にん にゅうしゃ ごねんめ きねん
か同期の女性四人は、入社五年目を記念して、
この春、一緒に海外旅行をする計画を立てた。

語 都内 tonai within Tokyo (see 3b) / 大手出版社 ōte shup- pansha large publishing company (see 5b) / 勤務する works; is employed / K嬢 Keijō Miss K / ほか including (Miss K) / 同期の女性四人 dōki no josei yonin four women hired at the same time / 入社五年目 nyūsha gonen-me fifth year after entering the company / 記念して kinen shite in honor of / この春 kono haru this spring / 一緒に issho ni together / 海外旅行 kaigai ryokō overseas trip / 計画を立てた keikaku o tateta made a plan

動 記念して 記念する kinen suru / 立てた 立てる tateru

注 The suffix 嬢 in K嬢 is a title of respect for a young unmarried woman. Originally used for the daughters of the nobility and wealthy, now 嬢 is often applied with mild sarcasm in the popular press to young women who may put on high-class airs. / 同期 dōki means "same period of time," so K嬢ほか同期の女性四人 means "four women, including Miss K, who were hired at the same time."

文 Since large Japanese companies usually hire new employees only once a year, in April, the people hired at the same time tend to think of themselves as a group. And because there is no senior-junior (先輩 senpai, 後輩 kōhai) tension to color their relations, as there is with people hired earlier or later, 同期 employees often find it easier to socialize with each other than with other coworkers. / Because Miss K is twenty-four and just starting her fifth year of work, she and the other three women were probably hired immediately after they completed two years of junior college. This would traditionally make them 一般職 ippanshoku, the term used for support workers, especially women, who are not in line for promotion. In contrast, 総合職 sōgōshoku are career-track employees who, in large companies, are almost invariably graduates of four-year colleges. In recent years, more women have been attending four-year colleges and looking for 総合職 jobs, but they still do not always receive equal treatment in hiring and promotions.

ST. PETERSBURG, FL 33738

7c

候補地はいろいろ出たが、日数と予算から、シンガポールかタイのバンコク、ということで話はまとまった。

語 候補地 kōhōchi candidate locations / いろいろ various / 出た deta were mentioned; were proposed / 日数 nissū the number of days / 予算 yosan budget / から because of / シンガポールかタイのバンコク Singapore or Bangkok, Thailand / ということで to iu koto de (see 注, below) / 話はまとまった hanashi wa matomatta they decided; they reached a conclusion

動 出た ⇨ 出る deru / まとまった ⇨ まとまる

注 Thailand is called タイ in Japanese, while the Thai language is タイ語 Tai-go. / The phrase ということで refers to something that has been previously mentioned. It usually does not need to be translated into English.

7d

翌日、K嬢は、会社の帰りに覗いた旅行代理店で、まさに理想的な日程と金額のタイのツアーを見つけ、とりあえず独断で予約を入れておいた。

語 翌日 yokujitsu the next day / 会社の帰りに kaisha no kaeri ni on her way home from work / 覗いた nozoita peeked into; dropped by / 旅行代理店 ryokō dairiten travel agency / まさに masa ni exactly; precisely / 理想的な risō-teki na ideal / 日程 nittei schedule / 金額 kingaku amount of money / ツアー tour / 見つけ mitsuke she found / とりあえず provisionally; for the time being / 独断で dokudan de on her own judgment / 予約を入れておいた yoyaku o irete oita she went ahead and made a reservation

動 覗いた ⇨ 覗く nozoku / 見つけ ⇨ 見つける mitsukeru / 入れて ⇨ 入れる ireru / おいた ⇨ おく

注 覗いた modifies 旅行代理店, so 覗いた旅行代理店 means "a travel agency that she dropped by." / The use of とりあえず suggests that Miss K has made the reservation only provisionally, pending consultation with her coworkers. / The final おいた, translated above as "went ahead," indicates an action taken with an eye to future developments. See also 51.

7e

翌朝。仲間の一人のY嬢を見かけると、K嬢はさっそく、その件を報告した。

語 翌朝 yokuasa the next morning / 仲間の一人のY嬢 nakama no hitori no Wai-jō Miss Y, one of the group / 見かける mikakeru notice; catch sight of / さっそく immediately / その件 sono ken that matter / 報告した hōkoku shita reported

動 報告した ⇨ 報告する hōkoku suru

注 仲間 means "a companion, friend, or colleague (either individually or as a group)." / The と after 見かける is the sequential と (see 1j). / その件 here refers to the fact that Miss K had made a tour reservation. The word 件 is often used to refer to previously discussed matters.

7f

「いいのがあったのよ。勝手にタイのツアーを申し込んだんだけど、いいわよね」

語 いいのがあったのよ ii no ga atta no yo there was a good one / 勝手に katte ni on my own; without prior consultation or permission / 申し込んだ mōshi-konjatta signed up for / いいわよね ii wa yo ne that's okay, isn't it?

動 あった ⇨ ある / 申し込んだ ⇨ 申し込んでしまった ⇨ 申し込む mōshikomuu / しまった ⇨ しまう

注 When referring to a person's behavior, 勝手 usually suggests selfishness or disregard for the feelings of others. When it refers to the speaker's own actions, the word conveys a sense of humble apology. In this sentence, Miss K's apology for what she has done is reinforced by the しまった suffix (see 3h and 4l). This apology is little more than a ritual, though. Miss K in fact thinks she has done a good thing by making the reservation, and she is expecting to be thanked.

7g

Y嬢は意外な顔をし、軽い非難の調子を込めて答えた。

語 意外な顔 igai na kao a surprised face / 軽い非難 karui binan slight criticism / 調子 chōshi tone of voice / 込めて komete with; including / 答えた kotaeta answered

動 し ⇨ する / 込めて ⇨ 込める komeru / 答えた ⇨ 答える kotaeru

注 意外な顔をする means "to make a surprised face" or "to look surprised." 意外 means "unexpected," and the reason for the surprise is that something unexpected has occurred.

7h

「あら、タイにしたの？バンコクじゃなかったの」

語 あら (shows mild surprise) / タイにしたの？ Tai ni shita no? Did you decide on Thailand? / バンコクじゃなかったの Bankoku ja nakatta no Wasn't it Bangkok?

動 した ☞ する / じゃなかった ☞ ではなかった ☞ ではない de wa nai ☞ である

注 The にする ni suru pattern means "to decide on; to choose." / In informal women's speech, a sentence ending with the particle の may be either an explanation or a question depending on the intonation. Explanatory の sentences have falling intonation, while questions have rising intonation. In writing, it is impossible to determine whether a sentence such as タイにしたの is an explanation or a question without contextual clues. Here, the ? shows unambiguously that タイにしたの is a question, and that context tells the reader that バンコクじゃなかったの is a question as well. (Question marks are normally used in Japanese only in cases of possible ambiguity. If the sentence is clearly a question—because it ends in か, uses an interrogative pronoun, etc.—then the question mark is omitted.)

7i

「えっ、だってバンコクはタイの首都^{しゅと}だけど……」

語 えっ ett Huh?! / だって but / 首都 shuto capital city

注 えっ is a shortened version of ええ, an interjection that, depending on the situation and intonation, can indicate joy, sorrow, anger, agreement, or hesitation. Here it shows surprise. As in 4g, the final small っ in えっ indicates a sudden halting of the vocal chords. It is not pronounced "t." Here and in 7j (えーっ), this っ is similar to an exclamation point. / The conjunction だって is used in speech when asserting a fact that contradicts another person's statement or assumption.

7j

「首都^{しゅと}？えーっ、だってタイの首都^{しゅと}はラオスでしょう。バンコクってコクがつくから国^{くに}の名前^{なまえ}じゃないの？」「……」

語 えーっ ēt (shows surprise or disbelief) / ラオス Laos / コクがつく koku ga tsuku ends in koku ("country") / 国の名前 kuni no namae the name of a country / じゃないの ja nai no isn't it?

動 じゃない ☞ ではない de wa nai ☞ である

注 えーっ is pronounced with a prolonged rising tone. This interjection is often used in conversation by young women. / The って after バンコク is a contraction of というのは to iu no wa, which literally means "that which is called..." though there is usually no need to translate it into English. In writing, バンコクというのは might be rendered with quotation marks: "Bangkok." / The ellipsis dots in quotation marks 「……」 indicate that the listener, Miss K, is so stunned she is unable to speak.

文 Genuine country names that end in 国 koku include 英国 Eikoku "United Kingdom," チリ共和国 Chiri Kyōwakoku "Republic of Chile," and the official name of Japan, 日本国 Nihonkoku or Nipponkoku.

7k

ワイじょうう
Y嬢は生まれてこの方、^{かた}二十四年間、バンコクはバンという^{くに}国、つまり“バン^{こく}国”と信じて^{うたが}疑わなかったのである。

語 生まれてこの方 umarete kono kata ever since she was born / 二十四年間 nijūyo nenkan twenty-four years / バンという国 Ban to iu kuni a country called Ban / つまり in other words; that is / 信じて疑わなかった shinjite utagawanakatta believed and didn't doubt

動 生まれて 生まれる umareru / 信じて 信じる shinjiru / 疑わなかった 疑わない 疑う utagau

注 この方 kono kata means "since; after." 生まれてこの方は a set phrase that means "all one's life; ever since one was born." / The と before 信じて is the quoting と, indicating what Miss Y believed. / Another version of the phrase 信じて疑わなかった appears in 3m.

7l

（同期入社^{どうきにゅうしゃ}の女性社員^{じょせいしゃいん}に、一人^{ひとり}だけ縁故^{えんこ}採用者^{さいようしゃ}がいるという噂^{うわさ}、本当^{ほんとう}だったんだ……）

語 同期入社^{どうきにゅうしゃ}の女性社員^{じょせいしゃいん}に dōki nyūsha no josei shain ni among the female employees who joined the company at the same time / 一人^{ひとり}だけ hitori dake only one (person) / 縁故採用者 enko saiyōsha a person hired through a personal connection / 噂 uwasa rumor / 本当^{ほんとう}だったんだ hontō datta n' da was true

動 だった だ

注 縁故 means nearly the same thing as コネ in 7a—a personal connection, whether through blood, marriage, or acquaintance. / 採用する saiyō suru means "to hire," and 採用者 saiyōsha is "hiree." / 一人^{ひとり}だけ縁故採用者がいるという噂 hitori dake enko saiyōsha ga iru to iu uwasa means "the rumor that only one person was hired through a personal connection." / The ん in 本当^{ほんとう}だったんだ is a contraction of the explanatory の. In other words, the fact that there was one hiree—Miss Y—who got her job through a connection explains why Miss Y is working in this company even though she is so ignorant. / This sentence is in parentheses because it indicates Miss K's thoughts.

7m

にゅうしゃごねんめ 入社五年目にして、
ケイじょう うわさ しんぎ かくしん K嬢は噂の真偽を確信した
のだった。

語 入社五年目にして nyūsha gonen-me ni shite in the fifth year after joining the company / 噂の真偽 uwasa no shingi the truth of the rumor / 確信した kakushin shita was convinced of

動 確信した 確信する kakushin suru / だった だ

注 にして is a literary version of に or で "in or at (a place or time)." / The characters 真 and 偽 in 真偽 mean "truth" and "falsehood," respectively. In some contexts, 真偽 can be translated as "truth or falsehood," though here just "truth" is better.

文 Large Japanese companies, which often have their pick of new hires, screen prospective employees in several ways. One is by choosing only those who have graduated from high-ranked universities, thus relying on the rigor of the university entrance exams to weed out the poorly educated and the less diligent. Another is by subjecting applicants to exams and interviews. The tests given by companies are usually not as tough as college entrance exams, and they often focus on more practical, common-sense knowledge, such as current events and geography. And a third is to use recommendations from the personal contacts of important people in the company. While this method is sometimes as effective as the others—a recommender can lose face if the introduced employee turns out to be a dud—it does not always work, as shown here by the case of Miss Y.

8

お坊っちゃん 飲尿健康法と恋人の憂鬱

THE RICH BOY'S URINE THERAPY
AND HIS GIRLFRIEND'S DEPRESSION

ST. PETERSBURG, FL 33733
EVRENDO COLLEGE LIBRARY

8

お坊っチャマ
飲尿健康法と恋人の憂鬱^{ゆううつ}

神奈川の住宅設計会社のOL、M子さん（二四）に、O君（二八）という吉川晃司似の恋人ができた。大学こそ二流だが、身長一八四センチ、父の経営する不動産会社に勤め、年収は八百万円を超す。車もBMWとパジェロを使い分けている。

Mさんは二月十四日、三万円のホンチョコを用意し、女友だちのカップルと横浜でダブルデートをした。その夜、二組のカップルは海の見えるホテルにチェックイン。

O君がシャワーを浴びているとき、隣の部屋の女友だちから電話があった。

「ねえ、私の彼が聞き出したんだけど、O君毎朝健康のためにおしっこ飲んでるんだって」

「げっ、マジ？」

*THE RICH BOY'S URINE THERAPY
AND HIS GIRLFRIEND'S DEPRESSION*

M-ko (24), an office worker at an architectural firm in Kanagawa, now has a boyfriend, O (28), who is as handsome as Kōji Kikkawa. Although he went to a second-rate university, he's 184 centimeters tall, works at a real estate company run by his father, and makes over eight million yen a year. He drives both a BMW and a Mitsubishi Pajero.

On Valentine's Day, M-ko bought 30,000 yen worth of chocolate just for O, and they went on a double date to Yokohama with another couple. That night, the two couples checked into a hotel with a view of the sea.

While O was taking a shower, M-ko got a telephone call from her girlfriend in the next room.

"Hey, according to my boyfriend, O drinks his own piss every morning. He says it's good for his health."

"Yuck!" M-ko said. "Are you serious?"

M子さんが恐る恐るO君に聞くと、自信たっぷりに答えた。

「風邪も扁桃炎も花粉症もこれで治ったんだ。尿の成分は汗や涙と同じで、ちっとも汚くないんだ。君も飲んでみろよ」

O君にキスされそうになったM子さんは、「キスは絶対にイヤ!」と頑なに拒んだ。

O君は“ノーパン健康法”も取り入れていて、寝るときにはいつも下着をつけない。

M子さんは三日間悩んだ末、O君に三つの条件を出した。

- ① 私の前で飲尿しないこと
- ② 私に飲尿を勧めないこと
- ③ 飲尿後は必ずうがいし、二十分以上歯を磨くこと

かっこよく、優しく、お金持ちのO君は毎週末、高級レストランに誘ってくれる。しかし、M子さんは憂鬱だ。

「いま、飲んだワインが体内で温まり、彼は明日の朝また飲むんだわ」

と想像するたびに、ご馳走がまずくなるからである。

When M-ko nervously asked O about it, he replied confidently, "It has cured my colds and tonsillitis and hay fever. There's nothing dirty about urine; it has the same components as sweat and tears. You should try drinking it, too."

When O started to kiss M-ko, she adamantly refused. "No kissing! No way!"

O also practices "no-underpants therapy"—he never wears briefs when he sleeps.

After stewing over it for three days, M-ko laid down three rules for O:

- (1) Do not drink urine in front of me.
- (2) Do not try to get me to drink urine.
- (3) Always gargle after drinking urine, and then brush your teeth for at least twenty minutes.

Every weekend, the handsome, gentle, and rich O invites M-ko out to expensive restaurants. But M-ko just feels depressed.

"That wine he's drinking now will get warmed up in his body, and then tomorrow morning he's going to drink it again."

Whenever she thinks about it, the gourmet food turns bitter in her mouth.

COMMENTARY

8a

Title: お坊^ほっ^{いんにようけんこうほう}ち^{こいびと}や^{ゆううつ}ま^{こいびと}飲^{こいびと}尿^{こいびと}健康^{こいびと}法^{こいびと}と^{こいびと}恋人^{こいびと}の^{こいびと}憂^{こいびと}鬱^{こいびと}

語 お坊^ほち^{いんにようけんこうほう}や^{こいびと}ま^{ゆううつ} o-botchama rich boy / 飲^{こいびと}尿^{こいびと}健康^{こいびと}法^{こいびと} innyō kenkō-hō urine therapy / 恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと} koibito girlfriend / 憂^{こいびと}鬱^{こいびと} yūutsu depression; melancholy

注 お坊^ほっ^{いんにようけんこうほう}ち^{こいびと}や^{ゆううつ}ま^{こいびと} is the extra polite version of お坊^ほっ^{いんにようけんこうほう}ち^{こいびと}ゃ^{ゆううつ}ん^{こいびと} o-botchan, which is either a polite term for another person's son or a derisive term for a rich, coddled young man who lacks common sense. / Just as ち^{こいびと}ゃ^{ゆううつ}ん^{こいびと} is a child's-language version of the polite suffix さん (6c), ち^{こいびと}ゃ^{ゆううつ}ま^{こいびと} is the child's version of the even politer suffix さま. / As explained in this story, adherents of 飲^{こいびと}尿^{こいびと}健康^{こいびと}法^{こいびと} believe that drinking or gargling one's own urine in the morning is beneficial to one's health in various ways. A few Japanese doctors advocate the practice, though it is not widely followed in Japan. / The characters in the phrase 飲^{こいびと}尿^{こいびと}健康^{こいびと}法^{こいびと} mean "drink-urine-health-method." / A 恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと} may be either a boyfriend or a girlfriend. Unlike 愛^{こいびと}人^{こいびと} aijin "lover," the word 恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと} does not imply—though it does not rule out—sexual intimacy. / If you like to impress people with your ability to write difficult kanji, the 鬱^{こいびと} in 憂^{こいびと}鬱^{こいびと} is a good one to learn. (It is also written 鬱^{こいびと}. Learn both versions and impress people even more.)

8b

神^か奈^な川^{がわ}の^{じゅうたくせつけいがいしゃ}住^{おーエル}宅^{エム}設^こ計^{にじゅうよん}会^{にじゅうよん}社^{にじゅうよん}の^{にじゅうよん}OL^{にじゅうよん}、M^{にじゅうよん}子^{にじゅうよん}さん^{にじゅうよん} (二^{にじゅうよん}四^{にじゅうよん})
に、O^{おーくん}君^{にじゅうはち} (二^{にじゅうはち}八^{にじゅうはち}) と^{きっかわこうじ}い^にう^{こいびと}吉^{こいびと}川^{こいびと}晃^{こいびと}司^{こいびと}似^{こいびと}の^{こいびと}恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと}が^{こいびと}で^{こいびと}き^{こいびと}た^{こいびと}。

語 神奈川 Kanagawa prefecture south of Tokyo / 住^{おーエル}宅^{エム}設^こ計^{にじゅうよん}会^{にじゅうよん}社^{にじゅうよん} jūtaku sekkei gaisha housing design company / OL ōeru female office worker (see 5a) / 吉^{きっかわこうじ}川^に晃^{こいびと}司^{こいびと}似^{こいびと} Kikkawa Kōji-ni resembling Kōji Kikkawa / 恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと}が^{こいびと}で^{こいびと}き^{こいびと}た^{こいびと} koibito ga dekita (she) acquired a boyfriend

動 でき^{こいびと}た^{こいびと} 可^{こいびと} でき^{こいびと}る^{こいびと}

注 吉^{きっかわこうじ}川^に晃^{こいびと}司^{こいびと} is a handsome pop singer and actor. He was at the height of his popularity in the early 1990s, when this story was written. / The suffix 似^{こいびと} ni means "resembling; looking like." / The いう^{こいびと} in O^{おーくん}君^{にじゅうはち}と^{きっかわこうじ}い^にう^{こいびと} modifies 恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと}, so O^{おーくん}君^{にじゅうはち}と^{きっかわこうじ}い^にう^{こいびと}吉^{きっかわこうじ}川^に晃^{こいびと}司^{こいびと}似^{こいびと}の^{こいびと}恋^{こいびと}人^{こいびと} means "a boyfriend named O who looks like Kōji Kikkawa." / The suffix 君^{こいびと} kun is explained in 3b.

文 Articles in the popular press often describe people's appearance through comparisons with show business personalities.

8c

大学こそ二流だが、身長一八四センチ、父の経営する不動産会社に勤め、年収は八百万円を越す。

語 大学 daigaku university / こそ (adds emphasis) / 二流 niryū second-rate / 身長 shinchō height / 一八四センチ hyaku hachijū yon senchi 184 centimeters (6'0") / 父 chichi his father / 経営する keiei suru runs; manages / 不動産会社 fudōsan gaisha real-estate company / 勤め tsutome works; is employed / 年収 nenshū annual income / 八百万円 happyaku man en eight million yen / 越す kosu exceeds

動 勤め ⇨ 勤める tsutomeru

注 This sentence describes three things: O's education, his height, and his income and job. While M-ko regards the second and third—184 centimeters and eight million yen per year from his father's company—as good, the first—O's graduation from a second-rate university—is not so favorable. The particle こそ singles out 大学 as different from the other two elements. / The particle の after 父 is an alternative form of the subject particle が, so 父の経営する不動産会社 means "the real-estate company that his father manages," with 父の経営する being a relative clause that modifies 不動産会社.

文 This sentence assumed that the reader was in tune with the Japanese zeitgeist of the early 1990s. At that time, Japanese women were said to demand three things from prospective husbands: 高学歴 kōgakureki "high educational background," 高身長 kōshinchō "high height," and 高収入 kōshūnyū "high income." In other words, they were supposedly interested only in men who were tall and rich and had gone to good universities. Because each requirement began with the kanji 高, they were referred to collectively as 三高 sankō "the three highs." Like 吉川晃司, though, 三高 vanished from the public consciousness within a few years.

8d

車もBMWとパジェロを使い分けている。

語 車 kuruma cars / パジェロ Pajero / 使い分けている tsukaiwakete iru uses one or the other as appropriate

動 使い分けて ⇨ 使い分ける tsukaiwakeru

注 The も "also" after 車 indicates that O's cars are another example of his wealth and attractiveness to M-ko. / Pajero is the name of a line of four-wheel-drive vehicles made by Mitsubishi Motors. In some countries they are marketed under the name Montero or Shogun.

8e

エムコ M子さんは二月十四日、三万円さんまんえんのホンチョコほんちょこを用意よういし、おんなともおんなとも女友だちのカップルカップルと横浜よこはまでダブルデートダブルデートをした。

語 二月十四日 nigatsu jūyokka February 14th (Valentine's Day) / 三万円 san man en (costing) thirty thousand yen / ホンチョコ a sincere present of chocolate / 用意し yōi shi prepared / 女友だち onna tomodachi girlfriend / カップル couple / 横浜 Yokohama city south of Tokyo, in Kanagawa Prefecture / ダブルデート double date

動 用意し ☞ 用意する yōi suru / した ☞ する

注 女友だち is a friend who happens to be a girl or woman. No romantic connection is implied. / In Japanese, the meaning of カップル is restricted to a man and woman who are lovers or married to each other. The word is not normally used in the more general sense of "pair."

文 On Valentine's Day, Japanese women give presents of chocolate to men. There are two major categories of these chocolate presents: 義理チョコ giri choko "obligatory chocolate," which includes inexpensive chocolate candies that female office workers give to male coworkers or bosses in whom they have no romantic interest, and ホンチョコ "favorite's chocolate," which is a more expensive chocolate gift given to an actual or prospective lover. The ホン in ホンチョコ is an abbreviation of 本命 honmei. Originally a sports term for a competitor that is expected to come in first in a race, 本命 can also refer to the person who is the leading candidate for some position. In this story, O is M-ko's leading candidate for her future husband. / March 14th has been designated ホワイトデー "White Day" in Japan. On that day, men who received Valentine presents are supposed to reciprocate with gifts of white chocolate or other treats.

8f

その夜、二組ふたくみのカップルは海うみの見えるホテルみにチェックイン。

語 その夜 sono yoru that night / 二組のカップル futakumi no kappuru the two couples / 海うみの見えるホテル umi no mieru hoteru a hotel with a view of the sea / チェックイン checked in 注 The の in 海うみの見える is an alternative to the potential particle が, so 海うみの見えるホテル literally means "a hotel from which the sea can be seen." / With the omitted verb added, this sentence would end チェックインした.

8g

オ-くん O君おんくんがシャワーあを浴びあているとき、隣となりの部屋へやの女友だちおんなともから電話でんわがあった。

語 シャワーを浴びているとき shawā o abite iru toki while taking a shower / 隣の部屋 tonari no heya the room next door / 電話があった denwa ga atta there was a telephone call

動 浴びて ⇨ 浴びる abiru / あった ⇨ ある

注 シャワーを浴びる is the usual expression for "to take a shower." 浴びる means "to be drenched with a large amount of water or other liquid."

8h

「ねえ、私の彼が聞き出したんだけど、^{オ-くんまいあさ}君毎朝健康のためにおしっこ飲んでるんだって」

語 ねえ hey, listen! / 私の彼 watashi no kare my boyfriend / 聞き出した kikidashita extracted information by asking; found out / 毎朝 maiasa every morning / 健康のために kenkō no tame ni for health's sake / おしっこ urine / 飲んでるんだって nonde 'ru n' datte (is said to) drink

動 聞き出した ⇨ 聞き出す kikidasu / 飲んでる ⇨ 飲んでいる ⇨ 飲む nomu

注 ねえ is used in conversation to get another person's attention or to change the subject to something that the speaker considers important. / Here 彼 means "boyfriend." Similarly, 彼女 kanojo sometimes means "girlfriend." / おしっこ is the word that children learn for "urine." A more formal word is 小便 shōben. The medical term is 尿 nyō. / The ん after 聞き出した and 飲んでる is a contraction of the explanatory and nominalizing の. / The ending って is used to report what someone else has said. It is a contraction of という.

8i

「げっ、マジ？」

語 げっ gett yuck! gross! / マジ really? are you serious?

注 The interjection げっ indicates the speaker's disgust. (The small っ is explained in 4g.) An initial げ seems to connote stomach upset in Japanese. Similar words include げる "vomit," げっぷ "burp," and the onomatopoeic げえげえ, which describes the sound of retching. / マジ is a shortened, slangy version of 真面目 majime "serious; not joking."

8j

M^{エム}子さんが^{おそ}恐る^{おそ}恐る^{オ-くん}君に^き聞くと、^{じしん}自信^たたっぷりに^た答えた。

語 恐る恐る osoru-osoru nervously; fearfully / 君に聞くと Okun ni kiku to when (M-ko) asked O / 自信たっぷりに jishin tappuri ni full of self-confidence / 答えた kotaeta answered

動 答えた ⇨ 答える kotaeru

注 The reduplicated 恐る恐る is an adverb derived from the verb 恐る osuru "to fear." / The と after 聞く is the sequential と. / たっぷり means "full." / The subject of 答えた is O君.

8k

「風邪も扁桃炎も花粉症もこれで治ったんだ。」

語 風邪 kaze a cold; the flu / 扁桃炎 hentōen tonsillitis / 花粉症 kafunshō pollen allergy, hay fever / これで by means of this / 治った naotta were cured

動 治った ⇨ 治る naoru

注 風邪 can refer to both the common cold and the flu. / The tonsils are called 扁桃腺 hentōsen. / The verb なおる is written 治る when it means "to recover from an illness." When it means "to be repaired; to be restored," it is written 直る.

8l

尿の成分は汗や涙と同じで、ちっとも汚くないんだ。君も飲んでみろよ」

語 尿の成分 nyō no seibun the components of urine / 汗 ase sweat / 涙 namida tears / 同じ onaji the same / ちっとも (not) at all / 汚くない kitanakumai not dirty / 君 kimi you / 飲んでみろよ nonde miro yo try drinking it

動 で ⇨ だ / 汚くない ⇨ 汚い kitanai / 飲んで ⇨ 飲む nomu / みろ ⇨ みる

注 尿の成分は汗や涙と同じで means "urine is made of the same things as sweat and tears." / ちっとも adds emphasis to the meaning of a sentence. It is used only in negative constructions. / The pronoun 君 kimi is used mainly by men when addressing a friend or close acquaintance who is of equal or lower social status. Being a woman, M-ko would be likely to reply to her boyfriend using either his name (probably followed by さん, ちゃん, or 君 kun) or あなた "you." / みろ is the brusque imperative form of みる. / When used after the gerund (-te) form, みる means "to try," so 飲んでみる is "to try drinking." / The final よ reinforces O's recommendation that M-ko try urine therapy.

8m

〇君にキスされそうになったM子さんは、「キスは絶対にイヤ！」と頑なに拒んだ。

語 キスされそうになった kisu saresō ni natta was about to be kissed (by O) / 絶対に zettai ni absolutely / イヤ! no! I refuse! / 頑なに katakuna ni stubbornly / 拒んだ kobanda refused

動 キスされ ⇨ キスされる ⇨ キスする / なった ⇨ なる / 拒んだ ⇨ 拒む kobamu

注 イヤ indicates strong dislike or refusal. It is also written いや, 嫌, or 厭. / The な in the adjectival noun (na adjective) 頑な katakuna is part of the stem, so another な is needed when the word precedes a noun: 頑なな態度 katakuna na taido "stubborn behavior."

8n

オ-くんは“ノーパン健康法”も取り入れていて、
寝るときにはいつも下着をつけない。

語 ノーパン健康法 nōpan kenkōhō no-underpants therapy / 取り入れていて toriirete ite has adopted / 寝るときには neru toki ni wa when he goes to bed / いつも always / 下着をつけない shitagi o tsukenai doesn't wear underwear

動 取り入れて ☞ 取り入れる toriireru / いて ☞ いる / つけない ☞ つける

注 The パン in ノーパン is an abbreviation of パンツ “underpants” or パンティー “panties.”

文 Practitioners of ノーパン健康法 believe that sleeping without any restrictions on the nether regions is beneficial to one's health.

8o

M子さんは三日間悩んだ末、オ-君に三つの条件
を出した。

語 三日間 mikka kan for three days / 悩んだ nayanda worried; was unable to decide / 末 sue after / 三つの条件 mitsu no jōken three conditions / 出した dashita presented

動 悩んだ ☞ 悩む nayamu / 出した ☞ 出す dasu

注 末 refers to the end of an action or period of time, so 三日間悩んだ末 means “after brooding over it for three days.”

8p

- ① 私の前で飲尿しないこと
- ② 私に飲尿を勧めないこと
- ③ 飲尿後は必ずうがいし、二十分以上歯を磨くこと

語 私の前で watashi no mae de in front of me; in my presence / 飲尿しない innyō shinai do not drink urine / 勧めない susumenai do not urge; do not recommend / 飲尿後 innyō go after drinking urine / 必ず kanarazu always; without fail / うがいし ugai shi gargle / 二十分以上 nijuppun ijō for more than twenty minutes / 歯を磨く ha o migaku brush your teeth

動 飲尿しない ☞ 飲尿する innyō suru / 勧めない ☞ 勧める susumeru / うがいし ☞ うがいする ugai suru

注 The sentence-final こと indicates a strong command or prohibition. It is often used in signs: タバコを吸わないこと tabako o suwanai koto “No Smoking.” / The pronunciation of 二十分 is discussed in 1m.

8q

かっこよく、^{やさ}優しく、^{かねもち}お金持ちの^{オーくん}○君は^{まいしゅうまつ}毎週末、
^{こうきゅう}高級レストランに^{さそ}誘ってくれる。

語 かっこよく handsome / 優しく yasashiku gentle; kind / お金持ち okanemochi rich / 毎週末 mai-shūmatsu every weekend / 高級レストラン kōkyū resutoran high-class restaurant / 誘ってくれる sasotte kureru invites (M-ko)

動 かっこよく ⇨ かっこよい ⇨ かっこうよい kakkō yoi
/ 優しく ⇨ 優しい yasashii / 誘って ⇨ 誘う sasou

注 Both かっこよく and 優しく are adverbial forms, which are used to link series of adjectives. Both of these words and お金持ちの modify ○君. / かっこよい is a shortened form of かっこうよい, which means “having a nice, refined appearance” or, more colloquially, “good-looking” or “cool.” It is also pronounced かっこいい or かっこういい.

8r

しかし、^{エムコ}M子さんは^{ゆううつ}憂鬱だ。

語 しかし however / 憂鬱だ yūutsu da is depressed; feels blue

注 This sentence echoes the story's title.

8s

「いま、^の飲んだワインが^{たいたい}体内で^{あたた}温まり、^{かれ}彼は^{あした}明日
の^{あさ}朝また^の飲むんだわ」

語 いま now / 飲んだワイン nonda wain the wine he drank / 体内で tainai de inside his body / 温まり atatamari is becoming warmer / 彼 kare he / 明日の朝 ashita no asa tomorrow morning / また again / 飲む nomu will drink

注 The subject of 飲む is 彼, that is, ○君.

8t

と^{そうそう}想像するたびに、^{ちそう}ご馳走がまずくなるから ある。

語 と (quoting と) / 想像するたびに sōzō suru tabi ni every time she pictures in her mind (what she describes in 8s) / ご馳走 go-chisō gourmet food / まずくなる mazuku naru starts to taste bad / から because 動 まずく ⇨ まずい

注 想像する sōzō suru means “to imagine; to picture in one's mind.” / ご馳走 can mean food or drink to which one is treated, or it can refer to a luxurious meal. Here the focus is on the latter, as they are eating in an expensive restaurant where the food would normally be delicious. /
The から explains why M-ko is depressed in 8r—she can

The Rich Boy's Urine Therapy

no longer enjoy the delicious food because she keeps thinking about what will happen to the wine that her boyfriend is drinking.

ECKERD COLLEGE LIBRARY
200 WEST SCOVILLE ST. 92723

9

初めて呼んだ
ホテトル嬢は隣の娘

HIS FIRST CALL GIRL WAS THE GIRL NEXT DOOR

初めて呼んだ
ホテル嬢は隣の娘

オホーツク海に面した北海道A町の助役Sさん（五九）は、六月初め、半年ぶりの東京出張に出かけた。いつもの出張の夜は、地元選出の代議士秘書に選挙区情勢の「取材」を受けるのだが、この日は秘書の日程が詰まっていた。

東京の夜を一人で過ごせることになったSさんは深夜、酔った頭で悩んだ。手には、A町では見ることのない「ホテルに出張します」のピンクチラシがある。

「よし、証拠は残らない」

と意を決したSさんは、受話器を取り上げた。

シャワーを浴び、酔いも少し冷めたところで、部屋のチャイムが鳴った。にこやかに、ゆっくりドアを開けたSさんは目をむいた。女性はSさんが住む公務員住宅の隣娘のM子ちゃんだったのだ。

*HIS FIRST CALL GIRL WAS
THE GIRL NEXT DOOR*

S (59) is deputy mayor of Town A on the Sea of Okhotsk in Hokkaido. At the beginning of June, he went on his first business trip to Tokyo in six months. Usually the evenings of his business trips are spent briefing his Diet representative's secretary on the latest goings-on in his district, but today the secretary's schedule was full.

Now S was able to spend the evening in Tokyo alone. Late that night, his brain foggy with drink, he tried to decide what to do. In his hand was something he had never seen in Town A: a flyer advertising a call girl service. "She'll come to your hotel," the ad said.

"Okay, no one will ever find out," he thought, and he picked up the telephone.

He had just taken a shower and sobered up a bit when the doorbell rang. Smiling, he slowly opened the door. But then his eyes widened. The woman was M-ko, the daughter of his neighbor back in the government employee housing complex where he lives in Town A.

「確か女子大の三年のはずだ。こんなところで何をしているんだ」

しかし、Sさんの叱咤しつたにM子ちゃんはたじろがなかった。

「おじさんが呼んだんでしょ」

旗色の悪くなったSさんは、

「お父さんからの仕送りがあるはずだ。もっとまじめにやらなきゃだめじゃないか」

と小一時間説教を続けたが、いかんせん迫力が無い。M子ちゃんは冗談とも本気ともつかぬ口調でいった。

「延長する？」

何もしなかったSさんだが、延長なしで規定どおりの三万円を払った。M子ちゃんは、

「おばさんには内証ないしよにしといてあげるよ」

と毅然きぜんとした顔で帰っていった。

なぜ、いつから、きっかけは。何も聞き出せず、あまつさえ、しっぽをつかまれて帰郷したSさんは、しらが白髪が増えたような気がした。

“You’re supposed to be a junior at a women’s university. What are you doing in a place like this?”

M-ko was unfazed by S’s scolding.

“You called for me, didn’t you?” she replied.

That put S on the defensive.

“Your father must be sending you an allowance,” he said. “Shouldn’t you be behaving better?”

He lectured her for nearly an hour, but to no effect.

“You want to pay for some more time?” M-ko asked.

He couldn’t tell if she was joking or serious.

Though S had done nothing, he paid the 30,000 yen as agreed, with no extension.

“I won’t tell your wife,” M-ko said as she left, still with a stubborn expression.

Why? Since when? How did she get into this? Unable to find out anything from her and, even worse, caught in the act himself, S returned home, his head, it seemed to him, having grown even grayer.

COMMENTARY

9a

Title: ^{はじ}初めて^よ呼んだ^{じょう}ホテル嬢^{となり}は隣の^{むすめ}娘

語 初めて hajimete for the first time / 呼んだ yonda called / ホテル嬢 hotetoru jō hotel call girl / 隣の娘 tomari no musume the neighbor's daughter

動 呼んだ ⇨ 呼ぶ yobu

注 ホテル is a blend of the words ホテル "hotel" and トルコ風呂 Toruko-buro "Turkish bath." A ホテル嬢 is a prostitute who plies her trade at hotels. / The phrase 初めて呼んだホテル嬢 indicates that this is the first time the protagonist of this story has hired a call girl.

文 The word トルコ風呂 formerly referred to bathhouses with private rooms where women would provide massages and sexual services to male customers. In the 1980s, after the Turkish government and others complained that genuine Turkish baths are not brothels, the bathhouse industry abandoned the term and coined the word ソープランド "soapland" to replace it. It is not known whether soap manufacturers have objected. / Although Japan enacted an antiprostitution law in 1956, the measure is inconsistently enforced and many forms of prostitution continue to be practiced openly.

9b

オホーツク海^{かい}に面^{めん}した北海道^{ほっかいどう}A町^{エイまち}の助役^{じょやく}Sさん^{エス}
(五九)^{ごじゅうきゅう}は、六月初^{ろくがつはじ}め、半年^{はんとし}ぶりの東京^{とうきょう}出張^{しゅつちょう}
に出^でかけた。

語 オホーツク海 Ohōtsuku Kai Sea of Okhotsk / に面した ni men shita facing onto / 北海道 Hokkaidō Hokkaido / A町 Ē machi Town A / 助役 joyaku deputy mayor / 六月初め rokugatsu hajime at the beginning of June / 半年ぶり hantoshi-buri for the first time in half a year / 東京出張 Tōkyō shutchō business trip to Tokyo / 出かけた dekaketa went; set out for

動 面した ⇨ 面する mensuru / 出かけた ⇨ 出かける dekakeru

注 オホーツク海に面した and 北海道 both modify A町, so the phrase オホーツク海に面した北海道A町 means "Town A in Hokkaido, facing onto the Sea of Okhotsk." / 町 is the official designation for a local governmental area smaller than a 市 shi "city" and larger than a 村 mura "village." The kanji 町 is read either chō or machi, with some towns preferring one reading and other towns the other. / A 助役 is a civil servant who serves as assistant to the mayor of a city or town. / 半年ぶりの東京出張 means "his first business trip to Tokyo in half a year."

9c

いつもの出張の夜は、地元選出の代議士秘書に
 選挙区情勢の「取材」を受けるのだが、この日
 は秘書の日程が詰まっていた。

語 いつも always; usually / 出張 shutchō business trip / 夜 yoru evening; night / 地元 jimoto local / 選出 senshutsu elected / 代議士 daigishi Diet member / 秘書 hisbo secretary / 選挙区 senkyo-ku electoral district / 情勢 jōsei situation / 取材 shuzai information-gathering / 受ける ukeru he receives / この日は kono hi wa on this day / 日程 nittei schedule / 詰まっていた tsumatte ita was full

動 詰まって 詰まる tsumaru / いた いる

注 いつもの出張の夜は means "Usually in the evening on his business trips." / Here the word 地元 refers to the location of a political power base, so 地元選出の代議士 means "a Diet member elected from S's district." / 代議士 usually refers to a member of the 衆議院 Shūgiin "House of Representatives," the lower and more powerful house in the Japanese Diet. / 取材 refers to gathering information for a particular purpose. 取材を受ける means roughly "to be interviewed." In this case, the Diet member's secretary would presumably ask S about the political situation in his boss's home district and perhaps put pressure on S to provide political support.

9d

東京の夜を一人で過ごせることになったSさん
 は深夜、酔った頭で悩んだ。

語 一人で hitori de by himself / 過ごせることになった sugoseru koto ni natta became able to spend (the evening) / 深夜 shin'ya late at night / 酔った頭で yotta atama de using his drunken brain / 悩んだ nayanda tried to decide what to do

動 過ごせる 過ごす sugosu / なった なる / 酔った 酔う yōu / 悩んだ 悩む nayamu

注 The first half of this sentence means "S, who was now able to spend the evening in Tokyo by himself." He seems to have spent the evening getting drunk. / 悩む here means "to be unable to make a decision."

9e

手には、^{エイまち} A 町では見ることのない「ホテルに
^{しゅつちやう}出張します」のピンクチラシがある。

語 手には te ni wa in his hand / 見ることのない miru koto no nai never seen (in Town A) / 「ホテルに出張します」 hoteru ni shutchō shimasu "We'll send (a woman) to your hotel." / ピンクチラシ advertising leaflet for a sex business

注 The word ピンク "pink" is a euphemism for sex-related matters. A ピンク映画 pinku eiga is a pornographic movie. / A チラシ is typically a one-page advertising flyer. The word is also written 散らし. / 手には modifies ある, the principal verb of this sentence. In other words, S was holding the leaflet in his hand. / The phrases 見ることのない and 「ホテルに出張します」の both modify ピンクチラシ.

文 A ピンクチラシ is typically a small printed notice advertising a call girl service, massage parlor, or other sex business. ピンクチラシ are often posted next to public telephones in nightlife areas or left in apartment building mailboxes.

9f

「よし、^{しょうこ}証拠は残らない」と意を決した^{エス}S さん
は、^{じゅわき}受話器を取り上げた。

語 よし okay! here we go! / 証拠 shōko proof; evidence / 残

らない nokoranai will not remain / 意を決した io kesshita decided / 受話器 juwaki telephone handset / 取り上げた toriageta picked up

動 残らない ⇨ 残る nokoru / 決した ⇨ 決する kessuru / 取り上げた ⇨ 取り上げる toriageru

注 People say よし when they have decided to do or start something new or difficult. / The と before 意を決した S さん is the quoting と, indicating what S said to himself when he decided to call the prostitution service.

9g

シャワーを浴び、酔いも少し冷めたところで、
部屋のチャイムが鳴った。

語 シャワーを浴び shawā o abi he took a shower / 酔い yoi drunkenness / 少し sukoshi a little bit / 冷めた sameta lessened; cooled off / ところで when / 部屋のチャイム heya no chaimu doorbell / 鳴った natta rang

動 浴び ⇨ 浴びる abiru / 冷めた ⇨ 冷める sameru / 鳴った ⇨ 鳴る naru

注 酔いが冷める means "to sober up." 冷める is an intransitive verb meaning "to cool off." In this context, it may also be written 覚める or 醒める.

9h

にこやかに、ゆっくりドアを開けた^あS^{エス}さんは目をむいた。

語 にこやかに with a smile / ゆっくり slowly / ドアを開けた doa o aketa opened the door / 目をむいた me o muita his eyes widened

動 開けた ⇨ 開ける akeru / むいた ⇨ 剥く muku

注 The idiom 目を剥く me o muku means "to open one's eyes in surprise or anger." The verb 剥く means "to peel," but 目を剥く has a different meaning from the English "to keep one's eyes peeled."

9i

女性^{じょせい}はS^{エス}さんが住む^す公務員住宅^{こうむいんじゅうたく}の隣^{となり}娘^{むすめ}のM子^{エム}ちゃんだったのだ。

語 女性 josei the woman / 住む sumu to live; to reside / 公務員 kōmuin civil servant / 住宅 jūtaku housing / 隣娘 tonari musume neighbor's daughter

注 公務員住宅 is a housing complex for public employees. Government agencies and private companies in Japan often provide low-cost housing for their employees. / The suffix ちゃん after M子 reflects both S's acquaintance with her and their difference in age. See also 6c. / The explanatory の in M子ちゃんだったのだ tells why S's eyes widened in 9h.

文 The words 女性, 女 onna, and 婦人 fujin all mean "woman." Of these, 女性 is the most neutral. In certain contexts, 女 onna might suggest "mistress" or "prostitute," while 婦人 fujin is avoided by some feminists and others for its old-fashioned, patronizing air. In many expressions, though, 女 and 婦人 are still the only choices, such as 女の子 onna no ko "girl" or 婦人科 fujinka "gynecology."

9j

「確か^{たし}女子大^{じょしだい}の三年^{さんねん}のはずだ。こんなところで何^{なに}をしているんだ」

語 確か tashika I thought; I was pretty sure that / 女子大 joshidai women's university / 三年 sannen third year (student) / はずだ hazu da supposed to be / こんなところで konna toko de in a place like this / 何をしているんだ nani o shite iru n' da what are you doing?

動 して ⇨ する

注 The sentential adverb 確か indicates that the speaker is almost certain of what he saying, though the word does leave some room for doubt. Here it reinforces はず, which also indicates something that the speaker believes to be true. Thus 確か女子大の三年のはずだ means "I thought you were supposed to be a junior at a women's university." / 女子大 is an abbreviation for 女子大学 joshi daigaku. / とこ is an informal version of 所 tokoro "place." / The ん in しているんだ is a spoken form of the explanatory and nominalizing の.

9k

しかし、^{エス}Sさんの叱咤に^{しつたに}M子^{ムコ}ちゃんはたじろが
なかった。「おじさんが呼んだんでしょ」

語 しかし however / 叱咤 shitta scolding / たじろがな かった didn't flinch; was unfazed / おじさん (refers to older men) / 呼んだんでしょ yonda n' desho you called, didn't you

動 たじろがなかった ⇨ たじろがない ⇨ たじろぐ / 呼
んだ ⇨ 呼ぶ yobu

注 たじろぐ means "to be overcome; to be staggered." /
The word おじさん is used to address or refer to men who are somewhat older than oneself. The word implies some degree of familiarity. The equivalent for referring to women is おばさん. The words おじいさん and おばあ さん are used in the same way to refer to elderly men and women.

9l

旗色の悪くなった^{はたいろ}S^{わる}さんは、「お父^{とう}さんからの仕
送り^{おく}があるはずだ。もっとまじめにやらなきや だめじゃないか」

語 旗色の悪くなった hatairo no waruku natta looked defeated / お父さん otōsan your father / 仕送り shiokuri allowance / もっとまじめに motto majime ni more seriously / やらなきやだめじゃないか yanakya dame ja nai ka aren't you supposed to behave?

動 なった ⇨ なる / やらなきや ⇨ やらなければ ⇨ や
る / じゃない ⇨ ではない de wa nai

注 旗色 literally means "the colors of flags." Originally, the idiom 旗色が悪い referred to an army's flags becoming less visible on the field of battle as the army is defeated.
Here, it refers to the fact that S was in a weaker position to scold M-ko for working as a prostitute after she pointed out that he was the one who had hired her. / 仕 送り is money sent periodically to help another person, such as a college student or an aged parent. / やらなき やだめ is a contraction of やらなければだめ, which means "must do."

9m

と小^こ一^{いち}時^じ間^{かん}説^せ教^{きょう}を^{つづ}続^{つづ}けたが、い^いか^かん^んせ^せん^ん迫^は力^りが ない。

語 小一時間 ko ichiji-kan for nearly an hour / 説教を続け
た sekyō o tsuzuketa he continued preaching / い^いか^かん^んせ^せ ん unfortunately / 迫^は力^りが^ない hakuryoku ga nai it had no effect (on her)

動 続けた ⇨ 続ける tsuzukeru / ない ⇨ ある

注 The initial と in this sentence is the quoting と, referring to 9l. / Before expressions of quantity, the prefix 小 ko means "almost; slightly less than." / The original meaning of 説教 is "religious preaching; proselytizing." In its reference here to S's attempt to convince M-ko to quit prostitution, the word lacks any religious connotation. / 迫力 means "the ability to move or influence other people."

9n

エム子ちゃんは冗談とも本気ともつかぬ口調でいった。「延長する？」

語 冗談 jōdan joke / 本気 honki honesty; seriousness / つかぬ unable to tell the difference / 口調 kuchō tone of voice / いった said / 延長する? enchō suru do you want to extend the time?

動 つかぬ つかぬ / いった 言う iu, yū

注 冗談とも本気ともつかぬ口調で means "in a tone of voice that S couldn't tell was joking or serious." / It seems that S had arranged to pay for one hour of M-ko's services. If he had agreed to the 延長, he would have had to pay an additional fee.

9o

なにもしなかったSさんだが、延長なしで規定どおりの三万円を払った。

語 何もしなかった nani mo shinakatta had done nothing / 延長なしで enchō nashi de without an extension / 規定どおり kitei dōri as agreed / 三万円 san man en thirty thousand yen / 払った haratta he paid

動 しなかった しない / 払った 払う harau

注 何もしなかった nani mo shinakatta refers to the fact that S had done nothing that he had paid the call girl for. / 規定 means "agreement; rules" and the suffix どおり, also written 通り, means "in accordance with," so 規定通り means "as agreed."

9p

エム子ちゃんは、「おばさんには内証にしといてあげるよ」と毅然とした顔で帰っていった。

語 おばさん (refers to older women) / 内証にしといてあげる naisho ni shitoite ageru I'll keep it secret for you / 毅然とした kizen to shita stubborn / 顔 kao face; expression / 帰っていった kaette itta left

動 しといて しておいて / した する / 帰って 帰る kaeru / 行った 行く iku

注 Here, おばさん refers to S's wife. M-ko uses this word because she is acquainted with S's wife. If M-ko had never met S's wife or was not on familiar terms with her, she would have used the word 奥さん okusan "wife" instead. / 内証 means "secret; confidential." 内証にする means "to keep confidential." / あげる indicates that M-ko will keep the secret as a favor to S.

9q

なぜ、いつから、きっかけは。何も聞き出せず、
あまつさえ、しっぽをつかまれて帰郷したSさ
んは、白髪が増えたような気がした。

語 なぜ why? / いつから since when? / きっかけは kikake wa how did she get into this? / 何も nani mo nothing / 聞き出せず kikidasezu unable to ask / あまつさえ in addition; even more so / しっぽをつかまれて sheepishly; having been caught in an act of weakness / 帰郷した kikyō shita returned to his home town / 白髪 shiraga white hair; gray hair / 増えたような気がした fueta yō na ki ga shita seemed (to him) to have increased

動 聞き出せず ⇨ 聞き出せる ⇨ 聞き出す kikidasu / つかまれて ⇨ つかまれる ⇨ つかむ / 帰郷した ⇨ 帰郷する kikyō suru / 増えた ⇨ 増える fueru / した ⇨ する

注 The first sentence consists of the questions that S wanted to ask M-ko but couldn't. Why and when had she started working as a call girl? What led her to do it? / きっかけ means "cause; reason; start." / 聞き出す means "to ask." It often refers to an attempt to extract information from someone who is reluctant to reveal it. / The idiom しっぽをつかむ means "to reveal a person's weaknesses or secrets." The literal meaning is "to grab by the tail."

AUTHOR'S PROFILE

TOM GALLY—writer, lexicographer, and translator—received master's degrees in linguistics and mathematics from the University of Chicago. He is the author of Handy Japanese: The Basics in 50 Easy Lessons and English for Scientists, and general editor of Kenkyusha's Guide to Quantitative Expressions in English. His dictionary work includes Kenkyusha's New Japanese-English Dictionary, 5th Edition, as well as its online version as part of the Kenkyusha Online Dictionary. Among his translated works are Japanese Verbs at a Glance, Amazing Science Tricks for Kids and Parents, and Jazz Up Your Japanese with Onomatopoeia: For All Levels. He is presently associate professor in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Tokyo.

ECHEM COLLEGE LIBRARY

With the exception of Chapter 9, which is new to this edition, this book was first published by Kodansha International in 1997 under the title Strange but True: A True-Life Japanese Reader.

Cover design by Koichi Kawamura.

Published by Japan & Stuff Press, Mihara 2-19-60-202, Asaka-shi, Saitama-ken 351-0025, Japan.

Japanese text from "Dekigotology," Shūkan Asahi.
Copyright © Asahi Shimbunsha.

English translation and commentary.
Copyright © 2007 by Tom Gally.
All rights reserved.

ISBN: 978-4-9902848-1-7

First edition by Japan & Stuff Press, September 2007

www.japanandstuff.com

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	7
まえがき	11
1 嫁のデキ心で知る有名スーパーの誠意	13
<hr/>
The Honesty of a Famous Supermarket, Revealed by a Daughter-in-Law's Sudden Urge
2 亡き友 ^な 担 ^{かつ} いで登った富士山頂の初日の出	33
<hr/>
A New Year's Dawn on the Summit of Mt. Fuji, Climbed While Carrying a Dead Friend
3 創作日記に秘める女のしたたかさ	55
<hr/>
A Woman's Shrewdness Concealed in a Fictional Journal
4 極道 ^{むすめむこ} の娘婿	73
<hr/>
The Son-in-Law of the Mob
5 潔癖OLの内柔外剛	93
<hr/>
The Two Sides of a Superclean Woman

6	ゼロ歳児にも及ぶ受験戦争子守歌	111
	Examination Hell Lullabies for Infants
7	バン国目指すコネ社員の無知蒙昧 ^{もうまい}	129
	The Cluelessness of a "Connected" Employee on Her Way to the "Country of Ban"
8	お坊っちゃん飲尿健康法と恋人の憂鬱 ^{ゆううつ}	145
	The Rich Boy's Urine Therapy and His Girlfriend's Depression
9	初めて呼んだホテトル嬢は隣の娘	165
	His First Call Girl Was the Girl Next Door

INTRODUCTION

Most Japanese-language textbooks make language learning simple and systematic. They carefully limit the number of kanji introduced at each level. They present new vocabulary and grammatical patterns step by step. Most important of all, they choose topics that are easy for readers to understand and unlikely to offend any teachers or students. The only problem with these textbooks is that they generally are very, very dull.

The boredom induced by textbooks contrasts sharply with the rich and stimulating variety of the Japanese press. Some fifty thousand books are published every year in Japan on subjects ranging from philosophy to pornography. Thousands of magazines clog the racks of bookstores and newsstands, offering entertainment and debate, scandal and libel, the high, the middlebrow, and the very low. It is this world, the world of Japanese as it is really written, into which this book is intended to provide a glimpse.

The nine stories in this book were chosen from the "Dekigotology" column that appeared in the magazine 週刊朝日 Shūkan Asahi for many years. The word dekigotology (デキゴトロジー) is a combination of 出来事 dekigoto, which means "event" or "happening," and the Greek/English suffix -logy. Dekigotology, in other words, is the study of things that happen. Each week, the column carried a half dozen stories, all purported to be true, about interesting events that had happened to people recently. The stories generally concern subjects that are familiar or topical, and their interest lies in the way they reveal what happens behind the scenes of everyday life.

The stories are often surprising and usually funny.

The stories on the following pages were selected from the hundreds that ran in "Dekigotology" in the early 1990s. To be chosen, each story had to meet two criteria: it had to be interesting, and it couldn't be so topical that it would quickly go out of date. There was also an attempt to choose a variety of topics.

Organization

Each story is presented first in its entirety, exactly as in the paperback book edition, with kanji pronunciations marked only when they appeared in the original. An English translation appears on the facing page. This translation is intended to help the reader understand the Japanese, so it is more literal in places than a smooth literary translation would be. Students of Japanese may want to avoid looking at the translation until they have finished reading the text and notes.

Next, the story is presented again a sentence or two at a time, with the reading of every kanji marked with furigana. Each of these text excerpts is followed by several groups of notes.

The first notes, marked with the kanji 語 (short for 語彙 vocabulary), consist of short glosses of words and phrases that appear in the preceding sentence. Every word is explained except basic grammatical function words (は, が, を, etc.) and words that have appeared earlier in the same story.

The second group of notes, marked with the kanji 動 (short for 動詞 verb), consists of reverse derivations of declined verbs and adjectives. The first word in each derivation is the form that appears in the sentence, while the last word is the form that would normally appear in dictionaries. For example, the series 疑わなかった ⇨ 疑わない ⇨ 疑う utagau goes from the past-tense negative to the nonpast negative to the nonpast affirmative (or dictionary) form of this verb.

The third group, marked with 注 (short for 注釈 an- notation), consists of detailed notes on the vocabulary and grammar. Special attention is given to identifying the subjects of verbs and to showing which nouns are modified by which adjectives, relative clauses, etc. These notes also include remarks on usage, related words, and typographical conventions, the last being a topic rarely mentioned in Japanese textbooks.

The notes in the final group, marked 文 (short for 文化 culture), provide information and commentary about the cultural background of the stories. When necessary, they also explain what makes the stories particularly interesting or funny to the Japanese reader.

Pronunciations are marked in the notes using romaji, not furigana. There are several reasons for this. Furigana are sometimes hard to read, especially when the type is small. Romaji are useful for showing word divisions and identifying the readings of the particles は and へ, such as in the phrase という のは to iu no wa. And for students who have learned Japanese from teachers who prohibit the use of romaji, the romaji scattered through the notes will familiarize them with this method of representing Japanese pronunciation, which is still essential for scholars and for others who use both Japanese and English in international contexts.

Acknowledgments

I am grateful to many people for their help in the preparation of this book. I first learned of "Dekigotology" over two decades ago from Tomoko Iwai, who was one of my Japanese teachers at the time, and her enthusiasm for making language learning interesting as well as educational was one of the inspirations for this book. I am also thankful to Hiroko Fukuda and Kazushi Ishida, who made valuable contributions to an early draft, to Michael Brase and Shigeyoshi Suzuki of Kodansha International for their helpful suggestions during the planning stages and for their careful editing of the first edition in 1997, and again to Michael Brase, now executive director of Japan &

Stuff Press, for offering to publish this expanded edition.

Special gratitude also goes to the Asahi Shimbun for kindly granting permission to reprint the stories here and to Shinchosha for permission to use the versions published in book form. Readers who wish to read more of these stories are encouraged to purchase the paperback anthologies in the 朝日文庫 Asahi Bunko and 新潮文庫 Shinchō Bunko series.

I would also like to thank the participants in the Honyaku mailing list for their wise and informative discussions on many matters related to Japanese and English translation. For their responses to questions I posted about this book, I am particularly indebted to Sara Aoyama, Adrian Boyle, John Brannan, Regina I. A. Brice, John Bryan, John De Hoog, Alan Gleason, Graham Healey, Rich Higgins, Brian Howells, Sako Ikegami, Dan Kanagy, Yosuke Kawachi, J. C. Kelly, Mamoru Kondo, Bill Lise, David J. Littleboy, John Loftus, Tammy J. Morimoto, Gururaj Rao, Adam Rice, Karen Sandness, Fred Uleman, Rodney Webster, and John Zimet.

As always, I am indebted to my wife, Ikuko Gally. She provided many comments and suggestions about each of the stories in this book, and her insights greatly improved the accuracy and depth of the notes.

Although all of these people did their best to help me, I fear that I have betrayed their kindness by persisting in many errors, for each of which I take full responsibility.

Tom Gally

まえがき

日本語を学ぶ外国人にとって、最大の悩みの一つは教科書の内容が面白くないということだ。初級レベルでは、基本語彙、日常会話などを修得する必要があるから、仕方がないのかもしれないが、中級以上のテキストになっても、楽しんで読めるものがほとんど載っていない。「日本の経済について」とか「平和を守ろう」という、百科事典や新聞の社説に出るような一般論や建前論、あるいは「スミスさんは靴を買う」のような、役には立つかも知れないが、実際には退屈な話ばかりが載っているからだ。そのような教科書で日本語を勉強すると、日本はつまらない国だ、日本人は感情に乏しい人種だ、といった誤解さえ生じかねない。

しかし、日本に住み、日本の映画、テレビ、漫画などを見ていると、この国が他の国に負けないくらい複雑な面を持っているということがわかる。上品で優雅な面もあるし、下品でけばけばしい面もある。

私は東京で日本語を勉強していたとき、日本語学校で使っていた教科書が嫌になると、よく近くの本屋に行って立ち読みした。まだ日本語がほとんど読めなかった頃でも、そこに並んだ本、特に雑誌の多様性、面白さに強い魅力を感じた。一日も早くそのような生の日本語を読みたかった。上級クラスになると、やっと教科書以外の読み物が使われるようになった。それが「デキゴトロジー」だった。

「デキゴトロジー」が初めて週刊朝日に載ったのは昭和53年頃だった。当初からは、このコラムのポリシーは本当の出来事を面白く伝えることにある。その内容は色々

な分野に渡っているが、私たちが日常経験する恥ずかしいこと、いやらしいこと、ずるいことなどが中心となっている。建前ばかりの教科書を読んでいた私にとっては、クラスで知った「デキゴトロジー」の生々しい人間性が新鮮な空気のようにだった。今でも「デキゴトロジー」を紹介してくださった岩井智子先生に感謝している。

以上の理由で、この本を作った。平成に入ってからのお話を九つ選んで、翻訳と詳細な注釈を付けた。対象読者は日本語を学習する外国人だが、日本のことを英語でどういうふうに説明するか、または外国人の目で日本語や日本人はどのように見えるか、ということに興味のある日本人にも読んでいただければ大変嬉しい。

1
嫁のデキ心で知る
有名スーパーの誠意

THE HONESTY OF A FAMOUS SUPERMARKET, REVEALED BY A DAUGHTER-IN-LAW'S SUDDEN URGE

嫁のデキ心で知る 有名スーパーの誠意

世田谷のS子さん（三一）宅に、^{ずし}逗子に住む^{しゅうとめ}姑、
F子さん（六一）が訪ねてきたのは、梅雨の晴れ間
の昼のことだった。

「渋谷まで来たから、ちょっと孫の顔を見にね」

S子さんにとっては鬼より怖い姑である。精いっ
ぱい愛想よくもてなした後、娘を連れて散歩にいっ てもらった。

ホッと一息。気が緩んだせいか、空腹を覚えたS
子さん、ふと、姑が近くの高級スーパー「Kノ国屋」
で買ったというドーナツの袋に目が止まった。逗子 の自宅用といていたから、

（これには手を出せないわね）

と一度は思ったものの、空腹は理性より強し。袋
を開けると、中には六個のドーナツ。

THE HONESTY OF A FAMOUS SUPERMARKET, REVEALED BY A DAUGHTER-IN-LAW'S SUDDEN URGE

It was midday during a dry spell in the rainy season when F-ko (61) came from Zushi to visit the home of her daughter-in-law S-ko (31) in Setagaya.

“Since I had already come as far as Shibuya, I just dropped by to see my grandchild’s face.”

For S-ko, her mother-in-law was more frightening than a demon. S-ko did everything she could to be a good hostess for F-ko. Later, her mother-in-law took Sko’s daughter for a walk.

S-ko breathed a sigh of relief. As she relaxed, S-ko felt hungry, and her eyes suddenly came to rest upon the bag of doughnuts that her mother-in-law had bought at K-nokuniya, a luxury supermarket nearby. F-ko had said that she was going to take the doughnuts home to Zushi.

S-ko thought at first, “I really shouldn’t touch them.”

But hunger is stronger than reason. She opened the bag and found six doughnuts inside.

(一個だけなら分からないか)

と、急いで食べると、パックの蓋^{ふた}を念入りに元に戻しておいた。そうとは知らぬ姑は、散歩から戻ると、ドーナツの袋を提げて、満足げに帰っていった。

ところが、返子に戻ったF子さん、しっかり、一個足りないのに気がついたから大変。

「天下のKノ国屋がこんなミスをするなんて！」

と、さっそくKノ国屋に延々三十分の抗議の電話。Kノ国屋の担当者も根負けした。翌朝一番に、八十円のドーナツ一個を後生大事に抱え、販売員と売り場の責任者がF子さん宅まで謝罪にきたのである。片道二時間余り。聞けば、販売員はそのため五時に家を出たという。

F子さんもこれには、

「さすがにKノ国屋だわー」

と大感激。友人やS子さんに吹聴^{ふいちよう}して回った。もちろん、それを聞いたS子さんは、顔面蒼白^{そうはく}。この秘密は、墓場まで持って行こうと固く決心している。

“Maybe she won't notice if I eat only one,” S-ko thought. She hurriedly ate a doughnut and carefully re-closed the package.

F-ko returned from her walk none the wiser. Quite satisfied with herself, she left for home carrying the bag of doughnuts.

But sure enough, when F-ko returned to Zushi, she noticed that one doughnut was missing. That's when the trouble started.

“I can't believe that, of all the stores in Japan, K-nokuniya would make such a mistake!” F-ko immediately called K-nokuniya to complain. The call dragged on for thirty minutes. F-ko was too much for the person handling the matter at K-nokuniya. The first thing the next morning, clutching a single 80-yen doughnut as if their lives depended on it, the sales clerk and the floor supervisor came to F-ko's home to apologize. One way, it had taken more than two hours. When asked, the sales clerk said she had left home at five o'clock that morning.

F-ko was greatly impressed. “That's K-nokuniya for you!” she said.

She spread the story around to her friends and S-ko. Of course, when S-ko heard what had happened, her face turned deathly pale. She has firmly resolved to take the secret to her grave.

COMMENTARY

1a

Title: 嫁^{よめ}のデキ心^{ごころ}で知る^し有名^{ゆうめい}スーパー^{せい}の誠意^い

語 嫁 yome daughter-in-law / デキ心 dekigokoro (bad) impulse / で知る de shiru to find out from; to be shown by / 有名 yūmei famous / スーパー supermarket / 誠意 sei honesty; sincerity

注 デキ心 is usually written 出来心. Katakana is often substituted for kanji or hiragana in informal writing as a kind of playful emphasis. / The phrases 嫁のデキ心で知る and 有名スーパーの both modify 誠意.

1b

世田谷^{せ た が や}の S 子^{エス コ}さん (三一) 宅^{さんじゅういち たく}に、逗子^{ず し}に住む
姑^{しゅうとめ}、F 子^{エフ コ}さん (六一) が訪ねてきたのは、
梅雨^{つゆ}の晴れ間^はの昼^まのことだった。

語 世田谷 Setagaya residential area in western Tokyo / S 子さん Esu-ko-san Ms. S., S-ko / 三一 三十一歳 sanjū-issai 31 years old / 宅 taku home, residence / 逗子 Zushi city near Kamakura, about 50 km south of central Tokyo / 姑 shūtome mother-in-law / 訪ねてきた tazumete kita came to visit / 梅雨 tsuyu the rainy season, which usually comes to all of Japan except Hokkaido in June / 晴れ間 harema a brief dry spell

動 訪ねて 訪ねる tazumeru / きた 来る kuru

注 The word 宅 can come immediately after a person's name without a connecting の, so S 子さん宅 means "S-ko's home." / The phrase 逗子に住む姑 modifies F 子さん, so 逗子に住む姑、F 子さん means "F-ko, (S-ko's) mother-in-law, who lives in Zushi." / The topic of this sentence is F 子さんが訪ねてきたのは "(the time when) F-ko came to visit"; the の is a nominalizing particle. This topic is linked by the copula だった to 梅雨の晴れ間の昼のこと. The core meaning of the sentence is thus "the time when F-ko came to visit was around mid-day during a brief dry spell in the rainy season."

文 The principal characters in the "Dekigotology" stories, and in many similar articles in the popular press, are identified by their initials. The 子 in S 子 marks it as a woman's name, perhaps 幸子 Sachiko or 静子 Shizuko. The mother-in-law F 子 might be 文子 Fumiko or 藤子 Fujiko. Not all women's names end in 子, however, and sometimes you may see names like H 美 (for 春美 Harumi) or A 奈 (for 安奈 Anna). / The ages 三一 and 六一 are written in kanji here because that is how they appeared in the original vertically-printed article. In horizontal Japanese text, the numbers would normally be written as 31 and 61. / The kanji 姑 is not one of the 1,945 characters of the 常用漢字 jōyō kanji list recommended by the Japanese government for general use. Aside from school textbooks and newspapers, few publications adhere rigorously to that list, and the student of Japanese who learns only the 常用漢字 will remain incompletely literate.

1c

「渋谷^{しぶや}まで来た^きから、ちょっと孫^{まご}の顔^{かお}を見^みにね」

語 渋谷 Shibuya a major business, shopping, and entertainment area on the west side of central Tokyo / 孫 mago grandchild / 顔 kao face

動 来た ⇨ 来る kuru / 見 ⇨ 見る miru

注 What F-ko means to say at the end of this sentence is ちよつと孫の顔を見に来たんです “I just dropped by to see my grandchild’s face.” F-ko’s omission of the verb is a breezy, familiar style that is common in speech and informal writing. The stories in this book contain many verbless sentences. / The symbols 「 and 」 are used here as quotation marks. Called 鈎括弧 kagi kakko “key brackets” because of their resemblance to Japanese L-shaped keys (鈎 kagi), these marks are also used for emphasis and to indicate proper names, as in 1g and 6j.

1d

S子^{エスコ}さんにとっては鬼^{おに}より怖い^{こわ}姑^{しゅうとめ}である。

語 S子^{エスコ}さんにとっては Esu-ko-san ni totte wa for S-ko, in S-ko’s opinion / 鬼 oni devil; demon / 怖い kowai frightening

注 The topic phrase of this sentence is understood to be F子さんは.

文 Conflicts between married women and their husbands’ mothers are a frequent theme of popular fiction and television dramas, reflecting, perhaps, the prevalence of such conflicts in real life.

1e

精^{せい}いっぱい愛^{あい}想^そよくもてなした^{あと}後^{むすめ}、娘^つを連れて^{さん}散^ぼ歩^ぽに^いって^もら^らった。

語 精いっぱい sei ippai as much as possible, with a total effort / 愛想よく aiso yoku cheerfully, warmly / もてなした entertained (her) / 後 ato after / 娘 musume daughter / 連れて tsurete taking along / 散歩に sanpo ni for a walk / いてもらった had gone; [lit.] received (her) going

動 もてなした ⇨ もてなす / 連れて ⇨ 連れる tsureru / いて ⇨ 行く iku / もらった ⇨ もらう

注 The subject of もてなした and もらった is S子さん, and the subject of 連れて and いて is F子さん.

文 The image of a daughter-in-law playing the perfect hostess while secretly fearing her mother-in-law would be familiar to many Japanese readers.

1f

ホッと^{ひといき}一息。

語 ホッと with relief / 一息 hitoiki a short rest; [lit.] one breath

注 As in 1a, the katakana in ホッと indicate a mild emphasis, similar to italic type in English. This word appears in dictionaries as ほっと. / Again the verb is omitted. The full idiom is 一息つく hitoiki tsuku “to take a breather.”

1g

気が緩んだせいか、空腹を覚えたS子さん、ふと、姑が近くの高級スーパー「Kノ国屋」で買ったというドーナツの袋に目が止まった。

語 気が緩んだ ki ga yurunda relaxed; became less tense, less vigilant; [lit.] the 気 ki became slack / せい because / 空腹 kūfuku empty stomach; hunger / 覚えた oboeta felt / ふと suddenly / 近くの chikaku no nearby / 高級 kōkyū high-class; luxury / 「Kノ国屋」 Kēnokuniya abbreviated name of supermarket / 買った katta purchased / という to iu, to yū which (F-ko) said (she bought) / ドーナツの袋 dōnatsu no fukuro bag of doughnuts / 目が止まった me ga tomatta (S-ko) noticed; [lit.] (S-ko's) eye stopped on

動 緩んだ ⇨ 緩む yurumu / 覚えた ⇨ 覚える oboeru / 買った ⇨ 買う kau / 止まった ⇨ 止まる tomaru

注 The phrase 気が緩んだせいか means “perhaps because she relaxed,” explaining why S-ko suddenly felt hungry. / The topic-marker は wa after S-ko-san has been elided. / While 覚える often means “to remember” or “to learn,” here its meaning is “to feel.” / 姑 is the subject of 買った. / S子さん is the topic for 目が止まった.

文 Tokyo residents would recognize Kノ国屋 as 紀ノ国屋 Kinokuniya, a luxury supermarket that sells imported food. (There's also an international chain of bookstores called Kinokuniya, but they write their name 紀伊國屋.)

1h

逗子の自宅用とっていたから、(これには手を出せないわね)と一度は思ったものの、空腹は理性より強し。

語 自宅用 jitaku-yō for use at one's home / とっていたから to itte ita kara because (F-ko) had said that / 手を出せない te o dasenai cannot touch; cannot get involved in / わね (shows mild exclamation; used by female speakers) / ものの mono no but / 空腹は理性より強し kūfuku wa risei yori tsuyoshi hunger is stronger than reason

動 いった ⇨ 言う iu or yū / いた ⇨ いる / 出せない ⇨ 出せる ⇨ 出す dasu / 思った ⇨ 思う omou

注 The kanji 用 is used as a suffix in many expressions similar to 自宅用. Examples include 客用 kyakuyō “for use by guests,” 軍用 gun'yō “for military use,” and 社用 shayō “for company use.” / The parentheses in (これには手を出せないわね) and in 1j indicate S-ko's unspoken thoughts. / 強し is the archaic literary form of the adjective 強い tsuyoi “strong.” / F子さん is understood to be the subject of いった, while S子さん is the subject of 出せない and 思った.

文 The phrase 空腹は理性より強し is a pun on the proverb 筆は剣より強し pen wa ken yori tsuyoshi “The pen is mightier than the sword.”

li

袋を開けると、中には六個のドーナツ。

語 開けると akeru to when (S-ko) opened / 中には naka ni wa inside / 六個 rokko six (roundish objects)

注 In full, this sentence would end 六個のドーナツがあった。

lj

(一個だけなら分からないか) と、急いで食べると、パックの蓋を念入りに元に戻しておいた。

語 一個だけなら ikko dake nara if only one (doughnut is missing) / 急いで食べる isoide taberu to eat in a hurry / パック package / 蓋 futa cover / 念入りに nen'iri ni carefully, meticulously / 元に戻しておいた moto ni modoshite oita reclosed (the package); [lit.] returned (the cover) to its original position (in preparation for F-ko's return)

動 分からない ⇨ 分かる wakaru / 急いで ⇨ 急ぐ isogu / 戻して ⇨ 戻す modosu / おいた ⇨ おく

注 The particle と is used in two distinct meanings in this sentence. The first と can be called the "quoting" と; it is used to report speech, names, or, in this case, thoughts. The quoting と often appears with the verb 言う "to say" or 思う "to think"; it is also used in lg and lh, for example. The second と is the "sequential" と; it shows that one action follows another. Examples of the sequential と appear in li and lk.

文 S-ko's impulsive doughnut eating is the デキ心 mentioned in the story's title.

lk

そうとは知らぬ姑は、散歩から戻ると、ドーナツの袋を提げて、満足げに帰っていった。

語 そうとは知らぬ姑 sō to wa shiranu shūtome her mother-in-law, who didn't know about that / 散歩から戻ると sanpo kara modoru to when (she) returned from her walk / 提げて sagete carrying / 満足げに manzokuge ni with a satisfied look / 帰っていった kaette itta went home

動 知らぬ ⇨ 知る shiru / 提げて ⇨ 提げる sageru / 帰って ⇨ 帰る kaeru / いった ⇨ 行く iku

注 The ぬ ending on 知らぬ is a more literary version of the negative suffix ない; 知らぬ has the same meaning as 知らない. / The basic meaning of the verb 提げる is "to dangle; to let hang." When the object is a shopping bag, handbag, or other object with a strap or handle, the verb is best translated as "to carry."

11

ところが、^{ずし}返子に^{もど}戻った^{エフ}F子^コさん、しっかり、
一個^{いっこ}足りないのに^き気が^きついたから^{たいへん}大変。

語 ところが however (i.e., contrary to what was expected or hoped) / 戻った modotta returned / しっかり surely; without missing a thing / 足りない tarinai to be lacking; to be missing / 気がついた ki ga tsuita noticed / から because / 大変 taihen a major crisis

動 戻った ⇨ 戻る modoru / 足りない ⇨ 足りる tariru / ついた ⇨ つく

注 The adverb しっかり, which modifies 気がついた, suggests that F-ko is the type who lets very little get past her. / As in 1b, the particle の is a nominalizer, so 一個足りないの means "(the fact) that one doughnut was missing." / Note that the meaning of から depends on the form of the verb it follows. After the past or present tense, it means "because": 気がついたから "because she noticed." When preceded by the gerund (te) form, however, it means "after": 気がついてから "after she noticed." / The word 大変 often expresses shock or panic. Someone who finds that the bathtub has overflowed and soaked the tatami is likely to shout 「大変だ!」 "Oh, no!" The word's use in the above sentence expresses S-ko's sense of impending disaster. / The copula だ after 大変 has been elided.

1m

「天下^{てんか}のK^ケノ国屋^{くにや}がこんなミスをするなんて!」
と、さっそく^ケK^ケノ国屋^{くにや}に^{えんえんさんじゅうぶん}延々^{こうぎ}三十^{さん}分の^{でん}抗議^わの電話^わ話。

語 天下の tenka no unsurpassed; leading / こんなミス such a mistake / なんて (expresses doubt, surprise, or anger) / さっそく immediately / 延々 en-en at length; longwindedly / 抗議 kōgi complaint / 電話 denwa telephone call

注 As the kanji suggest, the original meaning of 天下 is "under heaven," that is, "the entire country" or "the world." When used as a modifier, 天下の means "widely known to be the best." / The traditional pronunciation of 十分 in the meaning "ten minutes" is jūppun, not jūppun as shown above. While the former pronunciation can be heard in news broadcasts and the like, the latter is more common in contemporary speech. (When 十分 means "enough; sufficient," it is pronounced jūbun.) / With the unstated verb added, this sentence would end ...抗議の電話をした。

1n

ケ^ケノ国屋^{くにや}の^{なんとうしゃ}担当者^{こんま}も根^{こん}負け^まけした。

語 担当者 tantōsha the person handling the matter / 根負けした konmake shita gave up

動 根負けした ⇨ 根負けする konmake suru

注 根負けする means "to give up because one's opponent is more persistent."

10

翌朝一番に、八十円のドーナツ一個を後生大事に抱え、販売員と売り場の責任者がF子さん宅まで謝罪にきたのである。

語 翌朝一番 yokuasa (or yokuchō) ichiban the first thing the next morning / 八十円のドーナツ一個 hachijū-en no dōnatsu ikko one 80-yen doughnut / 後生大事に goshō daiji ni with infinite care / 抱え kakae holding (his or her arms around) / 販売員 hanbai-in sales clerk / 売り場 uriba sales floor (of the supermarket) / 責任者 sekinin-sha the manager; the person with senior responsibility / 謝罪に shazai ni to apologize

動 抱え ⇨ 抱える kakaeru / きた ⇨ 来る kuru

注 Other combinations with 翌 include 翌日 yokujitsu “the next day” and 翌週 yokushū “the next week.” / 抱え is the stem of 抱えます kakaemasu, the present formal of 抱える. The present formal stem is used to link clauses. / The difference between 謝罪にきたのである and just 謝罪にきた is that the の followed by the copula である indicates that this sentence is an elaboration of the preceding sentence; it explains what happened after the担当者 gave up in the face of F-ko’s complaints.

文 The term 後生 is so close in form and meaning to the English “afterlife” that one might think it a loanword. In fact, though, 後生大事 comes from Buddhism and originally meant “caring more about the next life than about this one.” In this story, the meaning is more secular. The supermarket employees were worried about not the Great Beyond but the store’s reputation. There’s a bit of sarcasim, too, in the use of this full-powered 漢語 kango to describe how someone carried an eighty-yen doughnut.

1p

片道二時間余り。聞けば、販売員はそのため五時に家を出たという。

語 片道 katamichi one-way (trip) / 二時間余り nijikan amari over two hours / 聞けば kikeba when (F-ko) asked / そのため for that purpose / 五時に goji ni at five o’clock / 家を出た ie o deta left home

動 聞けば ⇨ 聞く kiku / 出た ⇨ 出る deru

注 The opposite of 片道 is 往復 ōfuku “round trip.” / Other expressions with 片 include 片手で katate de “with one hand” and 片方 katabō “one (of a pair).” / After a numerical expression, 余り means “somewhat more than,” as in 十人余り jūnin amari “more than ten people; a dozen or so people.” / In this sentence, そのため means “in order to make the one-way trip of over two hours.” / The unstated subject of 聞けば is F子.

文 Nowhere is the gender of the 販売員 specified, nor that of the 担当者 or the 売り場の責任者. Each could be either male or female. This ambiguity is often impossible to maintain in translations into English, in which gender-specific pronouns are unavoidable.

1q

F^{エフ}子^コさんもこれには、「さすがにK^{ケー}ノ国^{くに}屋^やだわー」 と大感激。 だいかんげき

語 さすがに really; as expected / 大感激 daikangeki greatly moved; deeply touched

注 これ “this” refers to the long journey made by the supermarket employees. / The vowel of the exclamation particle わ is lengthened to わー wā as emotive emphasis. / 大 dai is a prefix meaning “greatly; very much.” / The particle と here is the quoting と (see 1j). / The verb of this sentence is 感激した kangeki shita, with the した omitted.

1r

友人^{ゆうじん}やS子^{エス}さんに吹聴^{ふいちよう}して回^{まわ}った。

語 友人 yūjin friends; acquaintances / 吹聴して回った fuichō shite mawatta proclaimed; spread the word

動 回った ⇨ 回る mawaru

注 By itself, 吹聴する means “to announce; to spread (news) widely.” The 回った emphasizes that F-ko told this story to one person after another.

1s

もちろん、それを聞いたS子^{エス}さんは、顔面蒼白^{がんめんそうはく}。

語 もちろん of course / 顔面 ganmen face / 蒼白 sōbaku pale; pallid

動 聞いた ⇨ 聞く kiku

注 With the omitted verb replaced, the sentence would end 顔面蒼白になった “her face blanched.”

文 The kanji 蒼 in 蒼白 means “blue” or “green.” It also has the kun reading ao.

1t

この秘密^{ひみつ}は、墓場^{はかば}まで持^もって行^いこうと固^{かた}く決^{けっしん}心^{しん}している。

語 秘密 himitsu secret / 墓場 hakaba grave / 持って行こうと motte ikō to to carry away / 固く kataku firmly; resolutely / 決心している kesshin shite iru has decided; has resolved

動 持って ⇨ 持つ motsu / 行こう ⇨ 行く iku

文 S-ko's determination to carry to the grave the secret of her furtive doughnut eating has two motives. One is her embarrassment at having forced the supermarket employees to take such a long journey for the sake of an 80-yen doughnut. The other motive, which gives a sharper edge to this story, is S-ko's continuing fear of what her mother-in-law would do if she ever found out.

2

な かつ 亡き友担いで登った
富士山頂の初日の出

*A NEW YEAR'S DAWN ON
THE SUMMIT OF MT. FUJI, CLIMBED
WHILE CARRYING A DEAD FRIEND*

2

な かつ 亡き友担いで登った
富士山頂の初日の出

東京で編集者をしているTさん(三三)は年末、郷里の静岡の友人と元旦の富士登山を約束した。ところが、大晦日に電話すると、友人は交通事故を起こし危篤だという。病院に駆けつけたらすでに亡くなっていた。

ひとしきり号泣した父親は、Tさんに哀願した。

「私も一緒に富士山に登ることになっていた。どうかこれから息子を登らせてやってくれ！」

そばにいた婦長も感動して、

「私もついていきますから」

という。そして二人はTさんを連れ出し、本当に遺体を車に乗せ、富士山に向かったのである。

途中、年末警戒の検問に遭った。警官は車内を覗き込み、

「そちらの方、顔色が悪いですね」

A NEW YEAR'S DAWN ON
THE SUMMIT OF MT. FUJI, CLIMBED
WHILE CARRYING A DEAD FRIEND

T (33), who works as an editor in Tokyo, had promised to climb Mt. Fuji on the morning of New Year's Day together with a friend from his native area, Shizuoka. But when T telephoned him on New Year's Eve, he was told that his friend had been in a traffic accident and was near death. T rushed to the hospital only to find that his friend was already dead.

Having sobbed for a while, his friend's father appealed to T: "I was supposed to go along to climb Mt. Fuji. Please do something so that my son can climb it now!"

The head nurse, who was nearby, was moved by this and said, "I'll go along, too."

So the father and nurse led T outside, and they actually did put the dead body in the car and head for Mt. Fuji.

Along the way, they were stopped for questioning as part of the year-end safe-driving campaign. A police officer peered into the car and said, "That fellow looks sick."

と聞く。間もなく遺体であることがバレたが、事情を知った警官は感動してパトカーで先導してくれた。

婦長を麓に残し、三人が大沢登山道を登り始めたのは夜の十時。遺体をおぶったのは重量挙げをやっていたTさんである。気温は氷点下十五度。すでに死後硬直が始まり、Tさんは何度も転び、血だらけになった。

午前五時半、やっと頂上に辿り着いた。焚き火をたくと、友人の体が少し温かくなった。

「生き返ったんじゃないか」

と、父がひとりつぶやいた。

七時少し前、いきなり朝日が差した。友人を挟み、Tさんも父も涙が止まらなくなった。

あれから五年が過ぎた。二月に友人の父から突然、便りが届き、中に自動シャッターで撮った三人の写真が同封されていた。友人は笑っているように見える。父は、フィルムを現像に回すまで五年かかったのである。

Tさんは、また涙が止まらなくなった。

Soon the fact came out that it was a corpse. When he understood the situation, the officer was so moved that he led the way for them in his patrol car.

Leaving the head nurse at the foot of the mountain, the three began to ascend the Osawa Trail. The time was ten o'clock at night. T, who used to lift weights, carried the body piggyback. The temperature was fifteen degrees below zero Celsius. Rigor mortis had already begun to set in, and T fell down several times and got covered with blood.

At half past five in the morning, they finally reached the summit. They built a fire, and the body of T's friend warmed up a little.

"It looks like he's come back to life," the father muttered to himself.

Just before seven, the morning sun suddenly shone on them. As they sat on either side of T's friend, neither T nor the father could stop crying.

Five years have passed since then. In February, a letter arrived unexpectedly from the friend's father. Enclosed was a photograph of the three of them, taken with a self-timer. The friend seemed to be smiling. It had taken the father five years to send the film to be developed.

Once again, T couldn't stop crying.

COMMENTARY

2a

Title: 亡き友担いで登った富士山頂の初日の出

語 亡き友 nakitomo dead friend / 担いで katsuide carrying on one's shoulders / 登った nobotta climbed / 富士山頂 Fuji-san-chō the summit of Mt. Fuji / 初日の出 hatsuhinode the first sunrise of the year

動 担いで ☞ 担ぐ katsugu / 登った ☞ 登る noboru

注 The verb 登った modifies 富士山頂 and 亡き友 is the object of 担いで, so 亡き友担いで登った富士山頂 means "the summit of Mt. Fuji, climbed while carrying a dead friend on one's shoulders." / The prefix 亡き naki "dead" is also used in other combinations, such as 亡き人 nakihito "deceased person" and 亡き父 nakichichi "one's late father." / The prefix 初 hatsu means "the first of the year," as in 初湯 hatsuyu "one's first bath of the New Year" and 初詣 hatsumōde "New Year's visit to a shrine."

文 One of the many customs associated with the New Year's season in Japan is viewing the first sunrise of the New Year. People go to mountaintops and east-facing seashores on the morning of January 1 to see and photograph the year's first dawn. Because of the cold and snow, though, only the most intrepid attempt to climb Mt. Fuji, which at 3,776 meters (12,388 feet) is the highest peak in Japan.

2b

東京で編集者をしているTさん(三三)は年末、郷里の静岡の友人と元旦の富士登山を約束した。

語 東京で Tōkyō de in Tokyo / 編集者 henshū-sha editor / 年末 nenmatsu at the end of the year / 郷里 kyōri home town; native area / 静岡 Shizuoka name of a prefecture and city southwest of Tokyo / 友人 yūjin friend / 元旦 gantān the morning of New Year's Day / 登山 tozan mountain climbing / 約束した yakusoku shita promised

動 して ☞ する / 約束した ☞ 約束する yakusoku suru

注 The phrase 東京で編集者をしているTさん means "T, who works as an editor in Tokyo." / Series of nouns linked by の are sometimes difficult to parse. Here 郷里の静岡の友人 means "a friend from T's native area, Shizuoka." / 富士登山 is "climbing Mt. Fuji."

文 The "Dekigotology" editors assert that all of the stories in this series are true. One piece of evidence to support this claim is the high proportion of characters who are editors, designers, or employees of publishing companies—in other words, the sort of people who are likely to be acquaintances of the series' writers.

2c

ところが、^{おおみそか}大晦日に^{でんわ}電話すると、^{ゆうじん}友人は^{こうつう}交通事故^{じこ}を起こし^{おき}危篤^{きとく}だという。

語 ところが however (i.e., contrary to what was expected) / 大晦日 Ōmisoka the last day of the year / 電話すると denwa suru to when T telephoned / 交通事故 kōtsū jiko traffic accident / 起こし okoshi had caused / 危篤 kitoku close to death

動 起こし ⇨ 起こす okosu

注 交通事故を起こす means "to be in a traffic accident." / The と after 電話する is the sequential と, while the と after 危篤だ is the quoting と (see 1j). / Tさん is the subject of 電話する, and 友人 is the subject of 起こし and 危篤だ. / The subject of いう is the unidentified person who told T of his friend's accident over the telephone.

2d

^{びょういん}病院に^か駆けつけたらすでに^な亡くなっていた。

語 病院 byōin hospital / 駆けつけたら kaketsuketara when (T) hurried (he found that) / すでに already / 亡くなっていた nakunatte ita had died

動 駆けつけたら ⇨ 駆け付ける kaketsukeru / 亡くなっていた ⇨ 亡くなる nakunaru, いる

注 駆け付ける means "to rush or hurry to a destination." /

The subject of 駆けつけたら is Tさん, and the subject of 亡くなっていた is 友人. / Here, the たら suffix suggests that the matter described in the following clause—that is, the death of T's friend—was surprising or unexpected.

2e

ひとしきり^{ごうきゅう}号泣した^{ちちおや}父親は、^{テイー}Tさんに^{あいがん}哀願した。

語 ひとしきり for a while / 号泣した gōkyū shita sobbed; wailed / 父親 chichioya father / 哀願した aigan shita appealed; begged

動 号泣した ⇨ 号泣する gōkyū suru / 哀願した ⇨ 哀願する aigan suru

注 父親 is the subject of both 号泣した and 哀願した. / 父親 is more formal than 父 chichi.

2f

「私も一緒に富士山に登ることになっていた。どうかこれから息子を登らせてやってくれ！」

語 私も watashi mo I also / 一緒に issho ni together (with you and my son) / ことになっていた was supposed to, was going to / どうか (word used with requests) / これから now; soon / 息子 musuko my son / 登らせてやってくれ noborashite yatte kure let [have] him climb the mountain (as a favor to me)

動 なっていた ☞ なっている ☞ なる / 登らせて ☞ 登らす ☞ 登る noboru / やって ☞ やる / くれ ☞ くれる

注 The pattern ことになっている follows the plain form of the verb and means “is supposed to” or “has been decided to.” / 登らせて is the gerund of 登らす, which is the literary causative form of the verb 登る. The usual spoken causative form is 登らせる. / The verb やる here means “to give,” with Tさん as the giver of the action and the father as the recipient. / くれ is the brusque imperative of くれる “to do for me.” The brusque imperative is seldom used in formal situations or by women. The more polite version of くれ is ください.

2g

そばにいた婦長も感動して、「私もついていきますから」という。

語 そば nearby; next to / 婦長 fuchō head nurse / 感動して kandō shite was moved (emotionally) / ついていきます go along with; accompany

動 いた ☞ いる / 感動して ☞ 感動する kandō suru / ついて ☞ 付く tsuku / いきます ☞ 行く iku

注 そばにいた婦長 means “the head nurse, who was nearby.” / The 婦 of 婦長 is the same as the last character of 看護婦 kangofu “nurse.” / The sentence 私もついていきますから literally means “Because I’ll go with you, too.” The explanatory から “because” indicates that the head nurse is giving another reason why T should take his friend’s body to Mt. Fuji—because she will accompany them.

2h

そして二人はTさんを連れ出し、本当に遺体を車に乗せ、富士山に向かったのである。

語 そして then; next / 二人 futari the two people (i.e., the father and the head nurse) / 連れ出し tsuredashi led (T) outside / 本当に hontō ni actually / 遺体 itai corpse; body / 車 kuruma car / 乗せ nose placed (into the vehicle) / 富士山に向かった Fuji-san ni mukatta headed for Mt. Fuji

動 連れ出し ☞ 連れ出す tsuredasu / 乗せ ☞ 乗せる noseru / 向かった ☞ 向かう mukau

注 乗せる is the transitive counterpart of 乗る noru “to ride; to get in a vehicle.” / 連れ出し and 乗せ are the stems of the present formal forms 連れ出します and 乗せます, respectively. As in 2j, 2l, and 2o, these stems link clauses. / The sense of 本当に in this sentence is “actually went so far as to (put the corpse into the car).”

2i

とちゅう ねんまつけいかい けんもん あ
途中、年末警戒の検問に遭った。

語 途中 tochū along the way / 年末警戒 nenmatsu keikai year-end safety [safe-driving] campaign / 検問 kenmon inspection; questioning / 遭った atta encountered; came across

動 遭った ⇨ 遭う au

注 遭う is one of several ways to write the verb 会う. When the meaning is “to meet; to rendezvous with,” the word is written 会う. The meaning “to match; to align” is written 合う. When written 遭う, the verb means “to encounter by chance; to happen to meet.” 遭う is usually used of unfortunate experiences.

文 During 年末警戒, the police do spot checks on passing vehicles, looking for drunk drivers, undone seatbelts, and other traffic violations. In this case, they may also have been hoping to turn back some of the motorcycles and cars packed with young people that gather at the base of Mt. Fuji for a raucous celebration of the New Year.

2j

けいかん しゃない のぞ こ かた かおいろ わる
警官は車内を覗き込み、「そちらの方、顔色が悪い
いですね」と聞く。

語 警官 keikan police officer / 車内 shanai interior of vehicle / 覗き込み nozokikomi peeked into / そちらの方

sochira no kata that person / 顔色が悪い kaoiro ga warui looks sick / 聞く kiku ask; inquire

動 覗き込み ⇨ 覗き込む nozokikomu

注 The verb 覗き込む “to peek into” is a compound of 覗く nozoku “to peek” and 込む komu “to put into.” / そちらの方 is the polite version of その人 sono hito “that person.” / The idiom 顔色が悪い literally means “his facial color is bad,” but “looks sick” is closer to the intended meaning. / The verb 聞く indicates that the police officer spoke in a questioning tone. As suggested by the sentence-final ね, he was asking for confirmation that T’s friend really was sick.

2k

まもなく ^{いた}遺体であることがバレたが、^{しじょう}事情を知
った警官は感動してパトカーで先導してくれた。

語 間もなく ma mo naku soon / 遺体であること itai de aru koto the fact that it was a corpse / バレた was revealed / 事情 jijō the situation / 知った shitta learned; found out / パトカー patrol car / 先導してくれた sendō shite kureta led the way (for T and the others)

動 バレた ⇨ ばれる / 知った ⇨ 知る shiru / 先導して ⇨ 先導する sendō suru / くれた ⇨ くれる

注 The idiom 間もなく literally means “without even an interval of time,” in other words, “very soon.” / The verb ばれる is used when lies, conspiracies, or other secrets are discovered. / 事情を知った警官 means “the police officer, when he found out about the situation.”

2l

婦長を麓に残し、三人が大沢登山道を登り始めたのは夜の十時。

語 麓 fumoto the foot of the mountain / 残し nokoshi leaving behind / 三人 sannin the three people / 大沢登山道 Ōsawa Tozandō the Osawa Trail / 登り始めたのは nobori-hajimeta no wa when they began climbing / 夜の十時 yoru no jūji ten o'clock at night

動 残し ⇨ 残す nokosu / 登り始めた ⇨ 登る noboru, 始める hajimeru

注 三人 is the subject of 残し and 登り始めた。

文 Is it surprising that 三人 “three people” should refer to two living people and a corpse? This may reflect the traditional Japanese belief that some portion of the soul of a dead person continues to inhabit the physical remains. This would also explain why T and the father decided to carry the corpse up the mountain in the first place.

2m

遺体をおぶったのは重量挙げをやっていたTさんである。

語 おぶった carried on his back / 重量挙げ jūryō-age weight lifting / やっていた had done; used to do

動 おぶった ⇨ 負ぶう obuu / やって ⇨ やる / いた ⇨ いる

注 The verb 負ぶう means “to carry on one’s back.” / 遺体をおぶったのは means “the one who carried the dead body”; this phrase is linked by the copula である to 重量挙げをやっていた Tさん “T, who used to do weight lifting.”

2n

気温は氷点下十五度。

語 気温 kion air temperature / 氷点下 hyōtenka below the freezing point / 十五度 jūgo-do fifteen degrees (Celsius)

注 -15°C is $+5^{\circ}\text{F}$.

2o

すでに死後硬直が始まり、Tさんは何度も転び、血だらけになった。

語 すでに already / 死後硬直 shigo kōchoku rigor mortis / 始まり hajimari had begun / 何度も nando mo several times; again and again / 転び korobi fell down / 血だらけ chi-darake covered with blood / なった became

動 始まり ⇨ 始まる hajimaru / 転び ⇨ 転ぶ korobu / なった ⇨ なる

注 The kanji of 死後硬直 show the meaning: “death-after-hard-straight,” that is, “stiffening after death” or “rigor mortis.” / The verb 転ぶ describes the action of tripping or slipping and then falling down. / The suffix だらけ also appears in 泥だらけ doro-darake “covered with mud.”

2p

午前五時半、やっと頂上に辿り着いた。

語 午前五時半 gozen goji-han half past five in the morning / やっと finally; at last / 頂上 chōjō summit / 辿り着いた tadoritsuita reached

動 辿り着いた ⇨ 辿り着く tadoritsuku

注 The verb 辿り着く means “to reach a goal after suffering or hardship.”

2q

焚き火をたくと、友人の体が少し温かくなった。

語 焚き火 takibi bonfire / たく light (a fire) / 友人の体 yūjin no karada T's friend's body / 少し sukoshi a little bit / 温かくなった atacakaku natta warmed up

動 たく ⇨ 焚く taku / 温かく ⇨ 温かい ataakai / なった ⇨ なる

注 The adjective あたたかい “warm” is written 温かい when it means “warm to the touch” or “friendly; cordial” and 暖かい when it means “warm air temperature.”

2r

「生き返ったんじゃないか」と、父がひとりつぶやいた。

語 生き返った ikikaetta came back to life / ひとり to himself / つぶやいた muttered

動 生き返った ⇨ 生き返る ikikaeru / つぶやいた ⇨ 呟く tsubuyaku

注 The ん after 生き返った is a spoken form of the explanatory nominalizer の, and じゃない is a contraction of ではない “not.” / The ending じゃないか means roughly “it looks like (he’s come back to life).”

2s

七時少し前、いきなり朝日が差した。

語 七時少し前 shichi-ji sukoshi mae shortly before seven o'clock / いきなり suddenly / 朝日 asahi the morning sun / 差した sashita shone (upon them)

動 差した ⇨ 差す sasu

2t

友人を挟み、Tさんも父も涙が止まらなくなった。

語 挟み hasami sitting [standing] on either side of / Tさんも父も T-san mo chichi mo both T and the father / 涙 namida tears / 止らなくなった tomaranaku natta wouldn't stop

動 挟み ⇨ 挟む hasamu / 止らなく ⇨ 止らない ⇨ 止る tomaru / なった ⇨ なる

注 The verb 挟む means "to place or press between." It is the source of the noun 鋏 hasami "scissors." / The compound phrase Tさんも父も is the topic of the verb phrase 止らなくなった; the subject is 涙. / A literal translation of Tさんも父も涙が止らなくなった might be "Both T's and the father's tears wouldn't stop."

2u

あれから五年が過ぎた。

語 あれから since then / 五年が過ぎた gonen ga sugita five years passed

動 過ぎた ⇨ 過ぎる sugiru

2v

二月に友人の父から突然、便りが届き、中に自動シャッターで撮った三人の写真が同封されていた。

語 二月 nigatsu February / 突然 totsuzen unexpectedly / 便り tayori letter / 届き todoki was delivered / 中に naka ni inside / 自動シャッター jidō shattā self-timer; automatic shutter / 撮った totta taken / 三人の写真 sannin no shashin a photograph of the three people / 同封されていた dōfū sarete ita was enclosed (in the envelope)

動 届き ⇨ 届く todoku / 撮った ⇨ 撮る toru / 同封されている ⇨ 同封される ⇨ 同封する dōfū suru

注 The context here suggests that 便り refers to a letter. In other situations, the word can also mean "news (about a person)" or "communication." / 自動シャッターで撮った三人の写真 means "a picture of the three people, taken with a self-timer." The verb 撮った modifies 写真. / When とる "to take" refers to the taking of photographs, videos, etc., it is written 撮る. / 同封する means "to enclose in the same envelope."

2w

友人は笑っているように見える。
ゆうじん わら

語 笑っている waratte iru smiling; laughing / ように見える
る yō ni mieru appears to be; seems to be

動 笑っている ⇔ 笑う warau

注 笑う can mean either "to smile" or "to laugh." (To keep this story from becoming too macabre, let's suppose that the corpse is only smiling.)

2x

父は、フィルムを現像に回すまで五年かかった のである。
ちち げんぞう まわ ごねん

語 フィルム firumu film / 現像に回す genzō ni mawasu
send for developing / 五年かかった gonen kakatta it took five years

動 かかった ⇔ かかる

注 As in 1o, the final のである indicates that the preceding clause is an explanation of what came earlier. Here, it explains that the letter from the father came five years later because it took him that long to get up the courage to develop the film.

2y

Tさんは、また涙が止まらなくなった。
テイー なみだ と

語 また again

注 This sentence is an echo of 2t.

ST. HELENSBURGH, N. Y. 12157

3

創作日記に秘める
女のしたたかさ

A WOMAN'S SHREWDNESS CONCEALED IN A FICTIONAL JOURNAL

3

創作日記に秘める
女のしたたかさ

都内の商社に勤めるF子さん(二五)は、就職活動
まっ盛りの大学生、T君(二三)と同棲中である。

今春、

「俺、情けないほど作文に弱いんだ。入社試験の練習に日記を書くから、添削してくれる？」

と彼に相談され、

「じゃあ、私もつきあって書くわ。でも、ただの日記じゃつまらないから、私のは全部フィクションの嘘つき日記ね」

と快諾、互いに見せ合うことに決めた。学生時代は作家を夢見たこともあるF子さん、毎夜、罪のないフィクションを書き連ねて楽しんでいたが、T君は大絶賛。

「上手いな、すごく面白い！」

しかし、彼女、最近になってこの嘘つき日記に新たな楽しみを見いだしてしまった。

A WOMAN'S SHREWDNESS
CONCEALED IN A FICTIONAL JOURNAL

F-ko (25), who works for a trading company in Tokyo, is living with T (23), a college student who is in the midst of looking for a job.

This spring, T asked F-ko, "I'm so bad at writing it's pitiful. I'm going to keep a diary as practice for employment exams. Would you check it for me?"

She readily agreed. "In that case, I'll keep one, too. But a simple diary would be boring, so mine will be all lies, total fiction, okay?"

And so they decided to show each other their diaries. When F-ko was in college, she had sometimes dreamed of becoming a writer, so every evening she had a good time writing out her innocuous fiction.

T thought her writing was great. "You're good," he said. "This is really interesting!"

But recently she found a new way to enjoy her fabricated journal.

「いま、会社に気になる人がいる。彼も私に興味があるみたいで、食事に誘ってくれたり。年下のTじゃ、結婚は先だし……」

この進行中の浮気を、さりげなく嘘つき日記に書くときの快感がたまらない。

「今日はTがコンパで遅い。私は会社の彼と、^{かんい}霧^き気のあるバーへ。店を出る際、彼の腕が私の肩にさりげなく回ったときは、新たな恋の予感を感じて……」

これもF子さんの“創作”と信じて疑わないT君は、「リアリティーあるよね。ゾクゾクしちゃう」と無邪気なもの。

「日記のおかげで、彼の行動は全面ガラス張りだし、私の浮気は完全フィクションってことになってるし。しばらく、この交換日記やめられないわ」

したたかに笑うF子さんである。

There's someone at the company who's been on my mind these days. He seems interested in me, too. He invites me out to eat and things like that. After all, T's younger than me and marriage is a long way off...

She gets an inexpressible thrill as she writes nonchalantly in her fictional journal about her ongoing affair.

T had a party tonight and was late getting home. I went with the man from the office to a mellow bar. When we came out of the bar, he casually put his arm around my shoulder. I felt the premonition of a new romance...

Believing without a doubt that this story was also F-ko's invention, T was all innocence. "It's so realistic," he said. "I get all excited."

"Thanks to his diary, I know everything that T does, while my affair is supposed to be completely fictional. I won't be able to give up swapping diaries for a while."

F-ko laughs shrewdly.

COMMENTARY

3a

Title: ^{そうさく}創作日記に^ひ秘める^{おんな}女のしたたかさ

語 創作 sōsaku creative work; imagination / 日記 nikki diary, journal / 秘める himeru hidden; kept secret / 女の onna no a woman's / したたかさ shrewdness; wiliness

注 As the story explains, a 創作日記 is a diary or journal that is supposed to be a work of the imagination. / The word したたかさ is the noun form of the adjectival noun 強か shitataka (also written 健か) "shrewd; stubborn; wily." / 女のしたたかさ can mean either "a woman's shrewdness" or "the shrewdness of women." / The verb 秘める modifies したたかさ.

3b

とない しょうしゃ つと エフコ にじゅうご しゅう
都内の商社に勤めるF子さん(二五)は、就
しよくかつどう さか だいがくせい ティーくん にじゅうさん
職活動まっ盛りの大学生、T君(二三)と どうせいちゅう
同棲中である。

語 都内 tonai within Tokyo / 商社 shōsha trading company / 勤める tsutomeru works; is employed / 就職活動 shūshoku katsudō job-hunting / まっ盛りの massakari no in the midst of; at the height of / 大学生 daigaku-sei university student / T君 T-kun Mr. T / 同棲中 dōsei-chū now living together

注 The 都 in 都内 is the last character in the official name of Tokyo, 東京都 Tōkyō-to "Tokyo Metropolis." / 就職 means "getting a job" and 活動 "activities." / まっ盛り appears in dictionaries as 真っ盛り. / The phrase 就職活動まっ盛りの大学生、T君 means "T, a college student who is in the midst of looking for a job." / The suffix 中 chū, as in 同棲中, indicates that something is currently taking place, as in 工事中 kōji-chū "under construction," 検討中 kentō-chū "under evaluation," and 戦争中 sensō-chū "in a state of war."

文 A 商社 is a company whose main business is buying and selling products, commodities, or services. Although the term is often translated as "trading company," many 商社 do business primarily or exclusively within Japan. The large, powerful Japanese trading companies that operate internationally are called 総合商社 sōgō shōsha. / The 就職活動 of a typical university student involves requesting information from companies, preparing separate handwritten résumés for each potential employer, visiting companies for tests and interviews, and asking friends, teachers, and relatives for advice and contacts. For most four-year college students, 就職活動 is the culmination of a lifetime of study and determines the student's future career and social standing. / The suffix 君 kun is added after a surname or given name. Usually used in place of さん with the names of boys or men, it indicates that the speaker or writer regards the other person as a friend or subordinate. It is not used when speaking to or about an older person. In this story, it suggests that T, as a university student, is still regarded as young by the writer or readers. / The term 同棲 can mean simply "living in the same home," but, as in this case, it often describes a man and woman living together out of wedlock.

3c

今春、^{おれ}俺、^{なさ}情けないほど^{さくぶん}作文に^{よわ}弱いんだ。

語 今春 konshun this spring / 俺 ore I; me (masculine, informal) / 情けないほど nasakenai hodo to a pitiful degree / 作文 sakubun writing; composition / 弱い yowai weak

注 Like 僕 boku "I; me," 俺 is used only by men. 俺 is less polite than 僕 and is not used when speaking to superiors or in formal situations. / The particle ほど means roughly "so much that...; to such an extent that..." / The phrase 情けないほど作文に弱い means "so bad at writing that it's pitiful." / The ん in 弱いんだ is a contracted form of the explanatory particle の.

3d

入社試験の練習に日記を書くから、添削してくれる？」と彼に相談され、

語 入社試験 nyūsha shiken company entrance examination / 練習 renshū practice / 日記を書くから nikki o kaku kara I'm going to keep a journal, so... / 添削してくれる？ tensaku shite kureru? could you correct it for me? / 彼に相談され kare ni sōdan sare (F-ko) was consulted by him

動 添削して ☞ 添削する tensaku suru / 相談され ☞ 相談される ☞ 相談する sōdan suru

注 添削する means to correct or revise another person's writing. / The subject of 書く is 俺 (T君), while the subject of 添削して and 相談され is F子. T wants to practice writing because employment tests often include essay questions.

3e

「じゃあ、^{わたし}私もつきあって^か書くわ。でも、ただの^{にっき}日記じゃつまらないから、^{わたし}私の^{ぜんぶ}は全部フィクションの^{うそ}嘘つき^{にっき}日記ね」と^{かいだく}快諾、^{たが}互いに見せ合う^あことに決めた。

語 じゃあ well, in that case / つきあって書く tsukiatte kaku write together with you / わ (shows emotive emphasis; used by female speakers) / でも but / ただの simple; plain; unadorned / じゃ (contraction of では de wa) / つまらない boring / 私の watashi no wa mine; my journal / 全部フィクションの zenbu fikushon no completely fictional / 嘘つき usotsuki lying; false / 快諾 kaidaku agreed cheerfully / 互いに tagai ni to each other / 見せ合う miseau to show (to each other) / こと (nominalizer) / 決めた kimeta decided

動 つきあって ☞ 付き合う tsukiau / 決めた ☞ 決める kimeru

注 付き合う here means "to do something together." / The particle じゃ, from では, indicates the topic of つまらない, so ただの日記じゃつまらない literally means "as for only a diary, that would be boring." / Both フィクション and 嘘つき mean "not true," though フィクション is often used in the sense of literary fiction while 嘘つき refers to a deliberate lie or deception. / The use of the sentence-ending particle ね after a noun or adjectival noun, as in 日記ね, is a feature of women's speech. Men would say 日記だね. / The omitted verb after 快諾 is して, the gerund form of する. / 互いに見せ合うことに決めた means "they decided to show (their journals) to each other." / The subject of 快諾(して) is F子さん, while the subjects of 見せ合う and 決めた are F子さん and T君.

3f

学生時代は作家を夢見たこともあるF子さん、
毎夜、罪のないフィクションを書き連ねて楽しんで
いたが、T君は大絶賛。

語 学生時代 gakusei jidai when (F-ko) was a college student / 作家 sakka writer; author / 夢見たこともある yumemita koto mo aru had sometimes dreamed about / 毎夜 maiyo every night / 罪のない tsumi no nai without sin; innocuous; harmless / 書き連ねて kakitsuranete writing at length; writing an extended work / 楽しんでいた tanoshinde ita was enjoying; was having fun / 大絶賛 dai zessan lofty praise

動 夢見た ⇨ 夢見る yumemiru / 書き連ねて ⇨ 書き連ねる kakitsuraneru / 楽しんで ⇨ 楽しむ tanoshimu / いた ⇨ いる

注 学生 means "college student"; the word normally does not refer to students of high schools, vocational schools, etc. / 時代 means "era; period of time," so 学生時代 literally means "the period when (F-ko) was a college student." / The clause 作家を夢見たこともある modifies F子さん, so 作家を夢見たこともある F子さん means "F-ko, who sometimes used to dream of being a writer." The も in こともある here means "sometimes; in addition to other things." / 絶賛 means "high praise"; the prefix 大 adds emphasis. / With the omitted verb added, this sentence would end T君は大絶賛した.

3g

「上手いな、すごく面白い！」

語 上手い umai skillfully done / な (indicates appreciation) / すごく very / 面白い omoshiroi interesting; fun

注 Without the okurigana い, 上手い becomes the adjectival noun 上手 jōzu, which means "skillful; talented." / すごく is the adverbial form of 凄い sugoi "frightening; terrifying; amazing; extreme." The use of すごく to mean "very," though common in speech, is discouraged by some conservative grammarians.

3h

しかし、彼女、最近になってこの嘘つき日記に
新たな楽しみを見いだしてしまった。

語 しかし however / 彼女 kanojo she / 最近になって saikin ni natte recently / 新たな arata na new / 楽しみ tanoshimi enjoyment / 見いだしてしまった miidashite shimatta discovered

動 見いだして ⇨ 見いだす miidasu / しまった ⇨ しまう

注 最近になって is nearly the same as 最近 saikin, which also means "recently," but 最近になって emphasizes a change in situation. Here, it shows that F-ko has just discovered a new kind of enjoyment. / The gerund (-te) form followed by しまう indicates that the action of the verb has unfortunate consequences. In the case of 見いだして しまった, the pattern is used ironically, as the consequences are unfortunate for T, not for F-ko. (In other contexts, the gerund + しまう form may indicate merely that the action of the verb is completed.)

3i

「いま、会社に気になる人がある。彼も私に興味があるみたいで、食事に誘ってくれたり。年下のTじゃ、結婚は先だし……」

語 いま now / 会社 kaisha (my) company; (my) office / 気になる人 ki ni naru hito a person I'm thinking about / 彼 kare he / 興味があるみたい kyōmi ga aru mitai seems to be interested / 食事 shokuji meals / 誘ってくれたり sasotte kuretari invites me (to meals) (and other things) / 年下 toshishita younger (than me) / 結婚 kekkon marriage / 先 saki in the future; still far off

動 みたいで ㊦ みたいだ / 誘って ㊦ 誘う sasou / くれたり ㊦ くれる

注 This passage is taken from F-ko's journal. / Though 会社 means "company," it often refers to a person's workplace, especially an office. / 興味 means "interest," and 興味がある "to be interested." / The suffix みたいだ means "seems." / The たり suffix in 誘ってくれたり corresponds to "other things"; that is, the man shows his interest in F-ko not only by inviting her to meals. / As in 3e, じゃ is a contraction of では de wa. 年下のTじゃ、結婚は先だ means "In the case of T, who's younger than me, marriage is still a long ways off." / The clause-ending particle し means roughly "too; in addition." It is often used when several clauses all exemplify the same thing. Two more examples appear in 3n.

文 On average, Japanese marry later than people in any other country, and college graduates are especially likely to marry late. Few young men of T's age and situation are married. F-ko, though, would be considered quite eligible.

3j

この進行中の浮気を、さりげなく嘘つき日記に書くときの快感がたまらない。

語 進行中 shinkō-chū now in progress / 浮気 uwaki infidelity / さりげなく casually; nonchalantly / 書くとき kaku toki when (she) writes / 快感 kaikan pleasure / たまらない extremely good

注 The original meaning of たまらない is "unbearable," but it has taken on the extended meaning of "unbearably good." / 浮気 is the object of the verb 書く.

3k

「今日はTがコンパで遅い。私は会社の彼と、雰囲気のあるバーへ。」

語 今日 kyō today; tonight / コンパ party / 遅い osoi late (arriving home) / 雰囲気のある fun'iki no aru having a nice ambience / バー bar; drinking spot

注 A コンパ is a college party where the attendees share the expenses. The word comes from the English "company." / 会社の彼 kaisha no kare literally means "he of the company," that is, "the man at the office." / 雰囲気 means the atmosphere or mood of a place. As here, it often refers to an interesting, memorable, or romantic ambience. / With the omitted verb, the second sentence would end バーへ行った bā e itta "went to a bar."

文 Japanese has several words for places where alcoholic beverages are sold and consumed. A バー or パブ serves mainly whiskey, brandy, cocktails, and other Western drinks and may have a stylish interior. A スナック or スナックバー serves light meals in addition to drinks. A 飲み屋 nomiya is a Japanese-style drinking and eating establishment, and an 居酒屋 izakaya is an inexpensive version of the same. A ビヤホール serves mainly beer, while a クラブ or ナイトクラブ is generally more expensive and caters to businessmen on expense accounts. A fashion-conscious young woman is likely to prefer a バー as being trendier or more romantic while disdaining a 飲み屋 or 居酒屋 as the province of drab older men.

3l

店を出る際、彼の腕が私の肩にさりげなく回ったときは、新たな恋の予感を感じて……」

語 店を出る際 mise o deru sai when we left the bar / 腕 ude arm / 肩 kata shoulder / 回った marwatta encircled; wrapped around / 恋 koi love; romance / 予感 yokan presentiment; anticipation / 感じて kanjite felt

動 回った ⇨ 回る maruwaru / 感じて ⇨ 感じる kanjiru

注 The word 店 can refer to almost any kind of retail establishment, including bars, restaurants, shops, boutiques, etc. / If completed, this sentence would end 感じていた "I felt." / The subjects of 出る are F子さん and 会社の彼, the subject of 回った is 彼の腕, and the subject of 感じて(いた) is 私 watashi "I."

3m

これも F 子さんの“創作”と信じて疑わない T 君は、「リアリティーあるよね。ゾクゾクしちゃう」と無邪気なもの。

語 これも this also / 信じて shinjite believed / 疑わない utagawanai does not doubt / リアリティーある has reality; is realistic / ゾクゾクしちゃう shiver with excitement / 無邪気なもの mujaki na mono innocent person

動 信じて ☞ 信じる shinjiru / 疑わない ☞ 疑う utagau / ゾクゾクしちゃう ☞ ぞくぞくしてしまう ☞ ぞくぞくする, しまう

注 これ refers to the passage quoted from F-ko's journal. / “創作” is in quotation marks because F-ko's journal was not really the “imaginative work” that F-ko pretended it was. / The と after “創作” and the と after T's statement are both the quoting と (see 1j). / これも F 子さんの“創作”と信じて疑わない T 君 means “T, who believed without a doubt that this was also F-ko's ‘imaginative work.’” / Referring to T as a 無邪気なもの suggests that he is innocent and childishly unsuspecting of F-ko's unfaithfulness. / This sentence's omitted verb is the copula だった.

3n

「日記のおかげで、彼の行動は全面ガラス張りだし、私の浮気は完全フィクションってことになってるし。」

語 日記のおかげで nikki no okage de thanks to the diary / 彼の行動 kare no kōdō his actions / 全面 zenmen completely; in every aspect / ガラス張り garasubari visible; exposed / 完全 completely; entirely

動 なってる ☞ なっている ☞ なる, いる

注 This sentence and 3o are what F-ko is thinking or saying. They are not taken from her journal. / The original meaning of ガラス張り is “lined with glass (and thus visible from the outside).” In its extended meaning, the word refers to information that is open to the public. Here, it indicates that F-ko knows everything T does because he records it all in his diary. / フィクションってことになってる is a contraction of フィクションということになっている fikushon to iu koto ni natte iru “it is supposed to be fiction.” / As described in 3i, the clause-ending し's mean roughly “too; in addition” and are used when giving a nonexhaustive listing of examples or reasons that lead to a certain conclusion (whether clearly stated or not). Here, these clauses explain why F-ko cannot stop keeping her journal (3o).

3o

しばらく、この交換日記こうかんにっきやめられないわ」

語 しばらく for a while / 交換日記 kōkan nikki [lit.] exchange diaries / やめられない cannot quit

動 やめられない ⇨ やめられる ⇨ やめる

注 The meaning of 交換日記 is explained by this story: a diary in which two people alternate entries, or diaries that two people show to each other. The practice of exchanging 交換日記 is most common among girls of elementary or junior-high-school age.

3p

したたかに笑わらう子こさんである。

語 したたかに shrewdly / 笑わらう warau laugh

注 This したたかに is echoed in the title of the story (see 3a).

4

むすめむこ
極道の娘婿

THE SON-IN-LAW OF THE MOB

4

むすめむこ
極道の娘婿

大阪のデザイナー、T君（二四）は、先日、妻・M子さん（二四）の出身地、北陸X市を初めて訪れた。

T君は、この里帰りを^{おび}怯えていた。というのは、M子さんの父親は北陸でちょっと名の知れた暴力団の組長。結婚披露宴^{ひろうえん}は大阪だったが、パンチパーマが並び、

「幸せを^か嘸みしめるどころじゃなかった」

からである。

さて、特急列車が駅に着くと、いきなりパンチパーマの一团が目に飛び込んできた。

「お帰りをさいますせっ！」

T君が降りると、口々に叫ぶ。組本部では宴会の用意ができていて、壁には襲名披露のように、

「T君とお嬢様を祝う」というようなことを大書した紙が張ってある。

THE SON-IN-LAW OF THE MOB

The other day, T (24), a designer in Osaka, paid his first visit to X City in Hokuriku, the birthplace of his wife, M-ko (24).

T was dreading this visit to his wife's home. The reason for which is that M-ko's father is the boss of a yakuza gang not entirely unknown in Hokuriku, and at their wedding reception, even though it was held in Osaka, there had been so many guys with gangster haircuts standing around that, as T says, "I was in no mood to enjoy any marital bliss."

When their train arrived at the station, a troop of gangster haircuts suddenly came into view.

"Welcome ho-o-o-ome!" they all yelled as T got off the train.

A banquet had been prepared for them at the gang headquarters. A poster on the wall read "In Honor of T and the Young Miss" in huge letters, as though announcing the name of the Boss's successor.

T君は逃げ出したくなかったが、
「何回か体験したら免疫^{めんえき}になるから」
平然とするM子さんに諭^{さと}されて着席した。

宴は盛り上がり、お開きというときに、T君にマイクが渡された。緊張でうまく言葉が出ない。が、なんとか最後までこぎつけ、

「みなさま、これからもよろしく申し上げます」

と、いおうとしたとき、

「みなさま、これからもよろしくご指導願います」

と、いってしまった。

一同、拍手喝采^{かっさい}。T君がこの世界に入る、と勘違いしたのだ。

「親分の跡継ぎができた」

「若親分でうちも安泰だ」

こんな声があちこちから漏れ、親分は感極まって涙し始めた。

困ったのがT君。大阪へ帰っても連日のように、

「いつ帰るのか。この世界でも修業は必要だから…」

と、義父から電話が入り、ノイローゼ寸前である。

T was inclined to make a run for it, but he was persuaded to take his seat by the unperturbed M-ko, who told him, "After you've been through this a few times you develop a certain resistance to it."

The party was lively. As the ending time approached, T was handed a microphone. He was so nervous that he stumbled over his words. Somehow he managed to get to the end, but when he tried to say, "In the future, I hope to get to know you all," he instead blurted out, "In the future, I hope to benefit from your advice."

One and all applauded and cheered. They had mistaken T to mean that he was going to enter the world of organized crime.

Here and there voices could be heard:

"The Boss has a successor."

"With the Young Boss, we have no more worries."

The Boss himself was moved to tears.

T didn't know what to do. Even though they've returned to Osaka, he receives a call from his father-in-law nearly every day, asking, "When are you coming home? Even in our business you need time for training, you know."

T is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

COMMENTARY

4a

Title: ^{ごくどう むすめむこ} 極道の娘婿

語 極道 gokudō the underworld; organized crime / 娘婿 musumemuko son-in-law

注 The term 極道 refers to the netherworld of gambling, prostitution, drugs, and other vices. Here it specifically means Japanese organized crime—the yakuza.

4b

^{おおさか}大阪のデザイナー、^{ティーくん にじゅうよん}T君(二四)は、^{せんじつ}先日、
^{つま エム こ}妻・M子さん(二四)の^{にじゅうよん}出身地、^{しゅっしんち}北陸^{ほくりくエクスシ}X市を^{はじ}初 ^{おとず}めて訪れた。

語 大阪 Ōsaka Japan's second-largest city / デザイナー designer / T君 Ti-kun Mr. T (see 3b) / 先日 senjitsu the other day / 妻 tsuma wife / 出身地 shushin-chi native area; birthplace / 北陸 Hokuriku the Japan Sea coastal area of central Japan / X市 ekkusushi X City / 初めて hajimete for the first time / 訪れた otozureta visited

動 訪れた ⇨ 訪れる otozureru

注 The dot separating 妻 and M子さん is called a 中黒 nakaguro or 黒丸 kuromaru. Here it functions similarly to a comma, so 妻・M子さん means “his wife, M-ko.” / 北陸 encompasses the prefectures of 新潟 Niigata, 富山 Toyama, 石川 Ishikawa, and 福井 Fukui. It is also called 北陸地方 Hokuriku Chihō “Hokuriku Region.” / The comma after 出身地 is like an equals sign, indicating that X City in Hokuriku is M-ko's home town.

文 Jobs such as デザイナー fall into the general category of カタカナ職業 katakana shokugyō, that is, job titles written in katakana. Other examples include プロデューサー “producer,” ディレクター “director,” and ライター “writer.” These titles convey the image of urban sophisticates who work in trendy, media-related fields, far from the sleazy world of organized crime into which T has married. / By identifying the Hokuriku city as X市, the “Dekigotology” editors are being especially cautious to avoid identifying the location, since no Japanese names begin with X in romaji. This extra caution may be due to the gangster connection.

4c

^{ティーくん}T君は、この^{さとがえ}里帰りを^{おび}怯えていた。

語 里帰り satogaeri a visit by a newlywed woman and her husband to her family / 怯えていた obiete ita feared; dreaded

動 怯えて ⇨ 怯える obieru / いた ⇨ いる

4d

というのは、^{エム}子^こさんの^{ちちおや}父親^{ほくりく}は北陸でちよいと
 名^なの知^しれた^{ほうりよくだん}暴力団^{くみちよう}の組長。

語 というのは to iu no wa because / 父親 chichioya father /
 ちよいと slightly; somewhat / 名の知れた na no shireta famous; well-known / 暴力団 bōryokudan criminal gang / 組長 kumichō leader

動 知れた ⇨ 知れる shireru

注 というのは indicates that what follows is an explanation of what came before. Here, 4d and 4e explain why T was dreading the visit to his wife's family home (4c). / 北陸 でちよいと名の知れた暴力団 means "a gang known somewhat in Hokuriku." / Although the literal meaning of ちよいと is "slightly; somewhat," here the word is used with ironic understatement to suggest that the gang is actually quite well-known in Hokuriku. / 組長 refers to the head of any group that is called a 組. Many yakuza gangs have names ending in 組, including the largest, 山 口組 Yamaguchi-gumi. But there are also legitimate organizations called 組, so in other contexts 組長 may not refer to a gang boss. / The copula だ is omitted from the end of this sentence.

文 Japan has hundreds of criminal gangs, including some of nationwide and international scope. Their activities include drug dealing, gun running, gambling, prostitution, extortion and protection rackets, confidence scams, and legitimate businesses as well. Many gangs have long histories and well-established organizations built upon fierce group loyalty. Among the general population, the gangs are regarded with a mixture of respect, amusement, and fear. A police crackdown has weakened their influence in recent years.

4e

結婚披露宴^{けっこんひろうえん}は大阪^{おおさか}だったが、パンチパーマ^{なり}が並
 び、「幸せ^{しあわせ}を噛みしめる^かどころじゃなかった」か らである。

語 結婚披露宴 kekkon hirōen wedding reception / パンチパ
 ーマ (men with a) short, curly hairstyle / 並び narabi were lined up / 幸せ shiawase happiness / 噛みしめる kamishimeru to savor; to enjoy / どころじゃなかった dokoro ja nakatta I was far from...; I certainly didn't feel like... / から because

動 だった ⇨ だ / 並び ⇨ 並ぶ narabu / じゃなかった
 ⇨ ではなかった ⇨ ではない de wa nai ⇨ である

注 披露 hirō means announcement, so the meaning of 結婚
 披露宴 is "a party announcing a wedding." Traditional Japanese wedding ceremonies are attended only by family members, and one purpose of the 披露宴 is to inform the invited guests that the nuptials really did take place as scheduled. / 結婚披露宴は大阪だった means "the wedding reception was held in Osaka." / The word パンチパ ーマ is a Japanese neologism taken from the English
 "punch" and "perm." T was frightened when he saw many men with パンチパーマ at his wedding reception because this hairstyle is common among yakuza. / Strictly speaking, パンチパーマ refers to the hairstyle itself, but here and in 4f it means men who have that hairstyle. /
 The word どころ followed by a negative verb indicates that something that might be considered normal is in fact unlikely or impossible. 幸せを嘯みしめるどころじゃなかった can be translated as "Enjoying my happiness (at getting married) was the furthest thing from my mind." / The から indicates that this sentence completes the explanation begun with というのは in 4d. In other words, T had dreaded the trip to his wife's home because her father was a gang leader and there had been many gangsters at their wedding reception.

4f

さて、特急列車が駅に着くと、いきなりパンチパーマの一団が目に飛び込んできた。

語 さて (shows a change in topic) / 特急列車 tokkyū resha express train / 駅 eki train station / 着く tsuku arrive / いきなり suddenly / パンチパーマの一団 panchipāma no ichidan a group of men with "punch perms" / 目に飛び込んできた me ni tobikonde kita leaped into sight

動 飛び込んで 飛び込む tobikomu / きた 来る kuru

注 さて here indicates that the focus of the story has shifted from the reasons for T's fears back to the visit to X City. / 特急 is an abbreviation for 特別急行 tokubetsu kyūkō "special express." / Although 列車 ressha and 電車 densha can both be translated as "train," they are not identical. 列車 refers to a series of train cars linked together, while a 電車 may consist of only one car. A 電車 is powered by electricity, while a 列車 could have a steam or diesel engine. / The と after 着く is the sequential と (see 1j). / 飛び込む means "to jump into." The idiom 目に飛び込む literally means "to jump into one's eyes," that is, "to appear suddenly."

4g

「お帰かえりなさいませっ！」^テ君くんが降りると、
口々くちぐちに叫さけぶ。

語 お帰りなさいませっ! okaerinasai masett Welcome home! / 降りる oriru get off (the train) / 口々に kuchiguchi ni with many voices / 叫ぶ sakebu to shout

注 お帰りなさいませ is an especially polite version of お帰りなさい okaerinasai, the usual greeting given to a family member who has just come home. An informal everyday version is お帰り okaeri. / The small っ in お帰りなさいませっ indicates an abrupt halting of the voice at the end of the greeting. Here it suggests tough yakuza speech. (This small final っ indicates a glottal stop; it is not pronounced t or tsu.) / The と after 降りる is the sequential と.

4h

組本部では宴会の用意ができていて、壁には
襲名披露のように、「T君とお嬢様を祝う」と いうようなことを大書した紙が張ってある。

語 組本部 kumi honbu gang headquarters / 宴会 enkai party, banquet / 用意ができていて yōi ga dekite ite preparations were finished / 壁には kabe ni wa on the wall / 襲名 shūmei the naming of a successor / 披露 hirō announcement / のように no yō ni like, as if / お嬢様 ojō sama daughter (respectful) / 祝う iwau congratulate / というようなこと to iu yō na koto something like... / 大書した taisho shita written large / 紙 kami paper / 張ってある hatte aru was stuck (to the wall)

動 できて ☞ できる / いて ☞ いる / 大書した ☞ 大書する taisho suru / 張って ☞ 張る haru

注 The term 本部 is used by many companies and other organizations to designate a headquarters or main office. / The verb 大書した modifies 紙. The phrase 「T君とお嬢様を祝う」というようなことを大書した紙 means “a piece of paper on which something like ‘Congratulations to T and the Young Miss’ was written large.” / The と in というような is the quoting と.

文 Many titled positions in Japan, from those of kabuki actors and artisans to those of shop owners and gang bosses, are handed down from generation to generation, with each person in line receiving the same ceremonial name. When a son is not available to inherit a male title, it may go instead to an adopted son or son-in-law. The banner congratulating T and M-ko, with T's name written so prominently, looked like a 襲名披露 “announcement of succession,” suggesting that the gangsters believed that T was joining the gang as their boss's heir.

4i

T君は逃げ出したくなったが、「何回か体験したら免疫になるから」平然とするM子さんに諭されて着席した。

語 逃げ出したくなった nigedashitaku natta felt like running away / 何回か nankai ka a few times / 体験したら taiken shitara after you have experienced (this) / 免疫になる men'eki ni naru you'll become immune / 平然とする heizen to suru unconcerned; indifferent / M子さんに諭されて Emu-ko-san ni satosarete was instructed by M-ko / 着席した chakuseki shita sat down

動 逃げ出したく ☞ 逃げ出したい ☞ 逃げ出す nigedasu / なった ☞ なる / 体験したら ☞ 体験する taiken suru / 諭されて ☞ 諭される ☞ 諭す satosu / 着席した ☞ 着席する chakuseki suru

注 逃げ出す means “to run away,” so 逃げ出したい is “want to run away” and 逃げ出したくなった is “began to feel like running away.” / The words 体験 taiken and 経験 keiken both mean “experience” and are sometimes interchangeable, though 体験 usually refers to a specific incident that has made an impression on a person, while 経験 often refers more generally to a person's past or background. / 免疫 is the medical term for “immunity.” It also has the extended meaning, as seen here, of “being accustomed to something.” / T君 is the subject of the passive verb 諭されて and M子さん is the agent, so the gist of the sentence is “T was instructed by M-ko.” / 諭す means "to provide moral instruction (to an inferior)." Here the word is meant to be comical, because it makes M-ko seem like her husband's teacher. / T君 is the subject of 着席した.

4j

宴は盛り上がり、お開きというときに、T君にマイクが渡された。

語 宴 utage banquet / 盛り上がり moriagari became lively / お開き o-hiraki the end of the party / マイク microphone / 渡された watasareta was handed

動 盛り上がり ⇨ 盛り上がる moriagaru / 渡された ⇨ 渡される ⇨ 渡す watasu

注 An elegant word for "banquet" or "party," 宴 sounds ironic when describing a gathering of thugs. / Words such as 終わる owaru "to end" and 切る kiru "to cut" are taboo at weddings and other celebrations, so euphemisms are supposed to be used instead. Here, お開き is the polite substitute for 終わり owari "the end."

4k

緊張でうまく言葉が出ない。

語 緊張で kinchō de because of nervousness / うまく well / 言葉 kotoba words / 出ない denai don't come out

動 出ない ⇨ 出る deru

注 The topic of this sentence is T君. / うまく言葉が出な

い means "he wasn't able to get the words out very well."

4l

が、なんとか最後までこぎつけ、「みなさま、これからもよろしくお願いします」と、いおうとしたとき、「みなさま、これからもよろしくご指導願います」と、いってしまった。

語 が but; however / なんとか somehow or other / 最後まで saigo made until the end / こぎつけ he reached the end / みなさま mina-sama you (plural, polite) / これからも kore kara mo from here on; in the future, too / よろしくお願いします yoroshiku o-negai shimasu (see explanation below) / いおうとしたとき iō to shita toki when he tried to say / ご指導願います go-shidō negaimasu please give me instruction / いってしまった itte shimatta he said (to his regret)

動 こぎつけ ⇨ 漕ぎ着ける kogisukeru / いおう、いって ⇨ 言う iu, yū / した ⇨ する / しまった ⇨ しまう

注 The original meaning of 漕ぎ着ける is "to row (a boat) all the way to one's destination." Here it is used in its extended meaning, "to reach a goal after repeated efforts." / よろしくお願いします is a set phrase used when one is introduced to other people. T had intended to close his speech with this phrase. Instead, he said よろしくご指導願います, which sounded as if he were asking the gangsters to instruct him in the ways of the underworld. / The いおう in いおうとした is the informal volitional form of 言う "to say." When the informal volitional is followed by とする, it takes on the meaning "to try" in the sense of "to attempt (without success)." / As explained in 3h, the gerund + しまう pattern indicates that the action of the verb had unfortunate consequences. Here, T's slip of the tongue made the mobsters think that T intended to join them, a misinterpretation that was definitely unfortunate for T.

4m

いちどう はくしゅかつさい ティーくん せかい かん
一同、拍手喝采。T君がこの世界に入る、と勘 ちが
違いしたのだ。

語 一同 ichidō everyone / 拍手喝采 hakushu kassai clapped and cheered / この世界 kono sekai this world (of organized crime) / 入る hairu enter, join / 勘違いした kanchigai shita misunderstood

動 勘違いした ⇨ 勘違いする kanchigai suru

注 一同 means "everyone who was present" or "the entire group." / The omitted verb after 拍手喝采 is した。 / 一同 is the subject of both 拍手喝采した and 勘違いした。 / T君 is the subject of 入る。 / The と before 勘違い is the quoting と (1j); it is used with the verb 勘違いした to indicate what was misunderstood. / The の in 勘違いしたのだ indicates that this sentence is an explanation of why everyone applauded.

4n

おやぶん あとつぎ わかおやぶん あんたい
「親分の跡継ぎができた」「若親分でうちも安泰
だ」

語 親分 oyabun the Boss / 跡継ぎ atotsugi successor / でき

た has been created / 若親分で waka-oyabun de with the Young Boss / うち we; our gang / 安泰 antai safe, secure

動 できた ⇨ できる

文 The gang members want T to be second-in-line to M-ko's father because a son-in-law is more likely to be recognized as the undisputed leader of the gang should the current Boss be incapacitated. Without a designated heir, the gang would risk disintegration into rival factions. Many men join yakuza gangs because they come from broken families, have limited educations, or suffer other disadvantages that exclude them from mainstream Japanese life. Gangs bring structure and security to the members' lives.

4o

こんな声^{こゑ}があちこちから漏れ、親分^{おやぶん}は感極^{かんきわ}まっ
て涙^{なみだ}し始^{はじ}めた。

語 こんな声 konna koe such voices; such words / あちこちから achikochi kara from here and there / 漏れ could be heard / 感極まって kan-kiwamatte was very moved / 涙し始めた namida shi-hajimeta began to shed tears

動 漏れ ⇨ 漏れる moreru / 感極まって ⇨ 感極まる kan-kiwamaru / 涙し ⇨ 涙する namida suru / 始めた ⇨ 始める hajimeru

注 こんな声 refers to the gangsters' outbursts of emotion in 4n. / The noun 涙 means "tears" and the verb 涙する "to shed tears."

4p

困こまったのがT君。大阪へ帰かえっても連日れんじつのように、
「いつ帰かえるのか。この世界せかいでも修業しゅぎょうは必要ひつようだから……」と、義父ぎふから電話でんわが入はいり、ノイローゼ 寸前すんぜんである。

語 困ったの komatta no the one who didn't know what to do / 大阪へ帰っても Ōsaka e kaette mo even after they returned to Osaka / 連日のように renjitsu no yō ni nearly every day / いつ when / 帰る kaeru come back (to X City) / この世界でも kono sekai de mo even in this business (of organized crime) / 修業 shugyō training; education / 必要 hitsuyō necessary / 義父 gifu father-in-law / 電話 denwa telephone call / ノイローゼ寸前 noirōze sunzen on the verge of a nervous breakdown

動 困った ⇨ 困る komaru / 帰って ⇨ 帰る kaeru / 入り ⇨ 入る hairu

注 Here, 困る means "to be uncertain how to deal with an undesirable situation." / With the omitted verb shown, the first sentence would end T君だ。 / 世界 is usually translated as "world." Here the sense is "field of activities," that is, the world of organized crime. / The から "because" after 必要だ shows that the clause explains something that was expressed or implied earlier. Here, the father-in-law wants T to come back to X City soon because a period of training is necessary even for people joining the underworld. / 電話が入り means "there were telephone calls (from the father-in-law nearly every day)." / The topic of ノイローゼ寸前である is T君。 / ノイローゼ comes from the German Neurose, which is cognate with the English "neurosis." A Japanese synonym is 神経

症 shinkei-shō "nervous disorder." In informal speech and writing, ノイローゼ and 神経症 may refer to any of a wide and ill-defined range of emotional and mental problems. / 寸前 is a suffix meaning "just before; on the verge of." Other examples include 出発寸前 shuppatsu sunzen "just before departing" and ゴール寸前 gōru sunzen "just before (reaching) the goal."

文 At the end of this story, T faces the dilemma of balancing his own wish to keep away from the world of organized crime with his sense of family obligation to his new father-in-law. The difficulty of his dilemma is compounded by his spoken blunder, which made it seem as though he wanted to join the gang, and by the threat of violence that underlies most relations with yakuza.

5

潔癖OLの内柔外剛

*THE TWO SIDES OF
A SUPERCLEAN WOMAN*

ST. PETERSBURG, FL 33703

5

潔癖OLの内柔外剛

千代田区の手出版社に勤めるO子さん（三四）は、きれい好きである。

外出には、傷口消毒薬を欠かさない。いまでは、洋式便座を拭う濡れナプキンが市販されているが、Oさんは十年以上も前から、傷口消毒薬を含ませたティッシュで拭き拭きしていた。

トイレだけではない。新幹線に乗る時は、まず座席を拭き拭き。肘掛けはたびたび肌が触れるので、特に念を入れる。他人の家に泊まるとなると、あてがわれた部屋の壁、窓のガラス、障子の棧、襖の引き手……。拭き拭きしないと眠れない。自宅でも、玄関のノブを毎度、拭いてから入るほどだ。

THE TWO SIDES OF
A SUPERCLEAN WOMAN

O-ko (24), who works for a large publishing company in Chiyoda-ku, likes things to be sparkling clean.

Whenever she goes out, she can't be without a disinfectant for minor cuts and scrapes. While moistened paper towels for wiping off Western-style toilet seats are now widely available, O-ko has been busily wiping toilet seats with tissue soaked in disinfectant for more than a decade.

And it's not just toilets. Whenever she takes the Shinkansen, the first thing she does is wipe off the seat. She's particularly careful with the armrests because of the repeated skin contact. When she stays at someone's home, she can't get to sleep until she has busily wiped everything in her room—the walls, the windows, the door frames, the door handles.... She even wipes the front door knob every time she goes into her own home.

ところが、友人のA子さん（二八）が目撃した彼女の部屋は、洋服や本が散らばり放題。台所の床には、スリッパが張りついていて、卵を落として割ったときに、

「後で掃除すればいいや」

と、何気なくスリッパをかぶせて何カ月も放っておいた。そのうち、接着剤でとめたように離れなくなったのだった。

「まあ、散らかってるけど、清潔よ。有機物やバクテリアは、消毒薬で拭き取ってる。卵から細菌が繁殖しても、空気中では休眠状態だから、こうすれば平気」

と、噴霧消毒剤のノズルをシューッと押したのだった。

ちなみに、O子さんは東北大学薬学部出身である。

But when her friend A-ko (28) got a look at O-ko's room, it was a complete mess—clothes and books scattered all around. There was a slipper plastered to the kitchen floor. When O-ko had dropped and broken an egg, she had simply put a slipper over it, thinking, "Oh, I can clean that up later." She left it there for several months, and before long the slipper had stuck fast, as if glued there.

"It may be messy, but it's clean," O-ko said. "I wipe up organic matter and bacteria with disinfectant. Even if germs should breed from the egg, they're still dormant in the air. There's no problem as long as I do this." As she spoke, she sprayed around some disinfectant.

Incidentally, O-ko graduated from the Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences at Tohoku University.

COMMENTARY

5a

けっぺきオーエル ないじゅうがいごう
 Title: 潔癖OLの内柔外剛

語 潔癖 keppeki obsessed with cleanliness; fastidious / OL ōeru female office worker / 内柔外剛 naijūgaigō tough on the outside but soft on the inside

注 潔癖 modifies OL. / OL is an abbreviation for the Japanese-English オフィス・レディー “office lady.” The term indicates an office support worker who is female, usually young, and not in a career-track position. / The kanji in 内柔外剛 show the meaning: inside-soft-outside-tough, that is, lenient about matters that have to do with oneself but strict about matters that have to do with other people. A typical example would be a person who habitually eats junk food while urging others to watch their diets. Here, the 内 and 外 also refer literally to the protagonist’s opposite attitudes toward germs inside and outside her home. This double meaning is indicated by the marks of emphasis that appear above 内 and 外 in the title on p. 94. These marks are called 傍点 bōten “side points,” because they appear next to kanji in vertically printed text. The term 内柔外剛 appeared originally in 易経 Ekikyō, the Chinese classic of divination called the Book of Changes or I Ching in English. It is also written 外剛内柔 gaigōnaijū. The opposite is 外柔内剛 gaijūnaigō or 内剛外柔 naigōgaijū.

5b

千代田区ちよだたくの大手出版社おおてしゅつぽんしゃに勤めるつとめる〇子おーこさんさんじゅう (三さん四し)は、きれい好ききれいずきである。

語 千代田区 Chiyoda-ku Chiyoda City (administrative area in central Tokyo) / 大手出版社 ōte shuppansha large publishing company / 勤める tsumomeru works; is employed / きれい好き kirei-zuki fond of cleanliness

注 Tokyo has twenty-three 区 ku. The word 区 has traditionally been translated as “ward,” but in recent years many of Tokyo’s 区 have changed their official English names to “city.” / 大手 indicates a company that is one of the largest in its field.

5c

がいしゅつ 外出には、きずぐちしょうどくやく 傷口消毒薬をか欠かさない。

語 外出 gaishutsu going out; leaving home / 傷口 kizuguchi wound; injury / 消毒薬 shōdoku-yaku disinfectant / 欠かさない kakasanai does not omit; does not forget

動 欠かさない 欠かす kakasu

注 外出には gaishutsu ni wa here means “whenever O-ko goes out.” The particle は is used for contrast to emphasize that O-ko’s behavior is different when she’s away from home. / 傷口消毒薬 is medical disinfectant for cleaning minor cuts and scrapes. / The verb 欠かす is often used, as here, in the negative. / The subject of this sentence is 〇子さん.

5d

いまでは、洋式便座を拭う濡れナプキンが市販されているが、〇子さんは十年以上も前から、傷口消毒薬を含ませたティッシュで拭き拭きしていた。

語 いまでは ima de wa nowadays; these days / 洋式便座 yōshiki benza Western-style toilet seat / 拭う nuguu to wipe / 濡れナプキン nure-napukin moistened paper towels / 市販されている shihan sarete iru are sold (at retail stores); are marketed / 十年以上も前から jūnen ijō mo mae kara since more than ten years ago / 傷口消毒薬を含ませたティッシュ kizuguchi shōdoku-yaku o fukumaseta tishbu tissue soaked in disinfectant / 拭き拭きしていた fukifuki shite ita has wiped

動 市販されて 市販される 市販する shihan suru / 含ませた 含ませる 含む fukumu / 拭き拭きして 拭き拭きする fukifuki suru / いた いる

注 洋式便座を拭う濡れナプキン means “moistened paper towels for wiping off Western-style toilet seats.” / 市販 refers only to selling in stores, markets, or other public venues. It is not used to describe private transactions. / The reduplicated 拭き拭きする suggests repeated, vigorous scrubbing and has a somewhat childish ring. The word is derived from the verb 拭く fuku “to wipe.”

文 O-ko took special care to clean Western-style toilet seats because they come into direct contact with people's bottoms. With crouch-style Japanese toilets (和式トイレ washiki toire), the user does not touch the toilet. Although both types of toilet are common in Japan, the Western style is gaining popularity in both private homes and public facilities.

5e

トイレだけではない。新幹線に乗る時は、まず座席を拭き拭き。

語 トイレ toilets / だけではない dake de wa nai not only / 新幹線 Shinkansen bullet train; Shinkansen / 乗る時は noru toki wa when she gets on (the Shinkansen) / まず first of all / 座席 zaseki the seat

注 The subject of 乗る and 拭き拭き(する) is 〇子さん。

5f

肘掛けはたびたび肌が触れるので、特に念を入れる。

語 肘掛け hijikake armrest / たびたび frequently; again and again / 肌 hada skin / 触れる fureru touches / ので because / 特に toku ni especially / 念を入れる nen o ireru is careful

注 The 肘 hiji in 肘掛け means “elbow.” / Other words ending in 掛け kake are 足掛け ashikake “footrest,” 肩掛け katakake “shawl,” and 洋服掛け yōfukukake “clothes hanger.” / 念を入れる is a common idiom meaning “to be careful.” 念 means “thought” or “feeling.”

5g

他人の家に泊まるとなると、あてがわれた部屋
の壁、窓のガラス、障子の棧、襖の引き手……。

語 他人 tanin another person / 家 ie, uchi house; home / 泊まるとなると tomaru to naru to when she spends the night / あてがわれた部屋 ategawareta heya the room assigned to her / 壁 kabe wall / 窓 mado window / ガラス glass / 障子 shōji translucent sliding door / 棧 san lattice / 襖 fusuma opaque sliding door / 引き手 hikite handle

動 あてがわれた ⇨ あてがわれる ⇨ あてがう

注 Here, the kanji 家 might be read either いえ or うち. / 泊まる means “to spend the night; to stay.” / The phrase となると means roughly “when it is time to…” or “when she happens to…” / あてがう means “to assign or allocate to another person.” / 障子 was originally the general term for all traditional wood-frame sliding doors. Now the word usually refers to 明かり障子 akari shōji, which are covered with a single sheet of translucent paper, silk, or plastic so that light can shine through. These 障子 have a framework of horizontal and vertical crossbeams (棧) that one may hold when sliding the door open or shut. A 襖 (or 襖障子 fusuma shōji) usually has no lattice and is covered with two layers of paper, so light does not pass through. The handle (引き手) is typically a round or rectangular indentation.

5h

拭き拭きしないと眠れない。

語 拭き拭きしないと fukifuki shinai to if she doesn't busily wipe / 眠れない nemurenai she is unable to sleep

動 拭き拭きしない ⇨ 拭き拭きする fukifuki suru / 眠れない ⇨ 眠れる ⇨ 眠る nemuru

5i

自宅でも、玄関のノブを毎度、拭いてから入るほどだ。

語 自宅でも jitaku de mo even at her own home / 玄関 genkan front door / ノブ knob / 毎度 maido every time / 拭いてから fuite kara after wiping / 入る hairu to enter / ほどだ hodo da she is so (fastidious that she...)

動 拭いて ⇨ 拭く fuku

注 玄関 usually refers to the entranceway of a home or building, although here it refers specifically to the door itself. / The word ほど suggests that the action described by the sentence is somehow unusual or extreme. It can often be translated as “so (adjective) that…” In this case, the adjective is unstated, because we understand from the preceding sentences that what is being described is O-ko's obsession with cleanliness.

5j

ところが、友人のA子さん（二八）が目撃した
彼女の部屋は、洋服や本が散らばり放題。

語 ところが however (i.e., contrary to what one would expect) / 友人のA子さん yūjin no Ēko-san (O-ko's) friend, A-ko / 目撃した mokugeki shita eyewitnessed; saw firsthand / 彼女の部屋 kanojo no heya her room / 洋服 yōfuku clothing / 本 hon books / 散らばり放題 chirabari hōdai scattered about with abandon

動 目撃した ⇨ 目撃する mokugeki suru / 散らばり ⇨ 散らばる chirabaru

注 A子さん is the subject of 目撃した, which modifies 部屋. / 彼女 refers to O子さん. / 洋服 refers to dresses, blouses, slacks, trousers, shirts, and other Western-style clothing. The opposite is 和服 wafuku "Japanese-style clothing." Since most Japanese wear 和服 only for special occasions or not at all, 洋服 can usually be translated merely as "clothing." / 散らばる means "to scatter about." / The suffix 放題 is used after the -masu stems of certain verbs to indicate that something is done with complete freedom. Thus やり放題 yari hōdai means "doing whatever you want" and 食べ放題 tabe hōdai "all you can eat."

5k

台所の床には、スリッパが張りついていた。

語 台所 daidokoro kitchen / 床 yuka floor / スリッパ slipper / 張りついていた haritsuite ita was stuck

動 張りついて ⇨ 張り付く haritsuku / いた ⇨ いる

注 張り付く means "to be stuck firmly onto something."

文 In most Japanese homes, people wear slippers when walking on carpet, wood floors, or linoleum. They remove the slippers when walking on tatami, and switch to a different pair of slippers when using the toilet.

5l

卵を落として割ったときに、「後で掃除すればいいや」と、何気なくスリッパをかぶせて何カ月も放っておいた。

語 卵 tamago egg / 落として割ったときに otoshite watta toki ni when she dropped and broke (an egg) / 後で掃除すればいいや ato de sōji sureba ii ya it's okay if I clean it later / 何気なく nanige naku casually, without concern / かぶせて covered up / 何カ月も nankagetsu mo for several months / 放っておいた hōtte oita had left untouched

動 落として ⇨ 落とす otosu / 割った ⇨ 割る waru / 掃除すれば ⇨ 掃除する sōji suru / かぶせて ⇨ 被せる kabuseru / 放って ⇨ 放る hōru / おいた ⇨ おく

注 The -ba form of a verb followed by いい "good" means "it's okay to do..." as in 後で掃除すればいいや. / The final や adds a sense of casual unconcern. This casualness is reinforced by the phrase 何気なく. / 放る here means

“to leave alone; to ignore.” / When used after a gerund, the verb おく adds the sense that the effects of the preceding verb extend into the future. Here おく is used because O-ko left the slipper stuck to the floor for months.

5m

そのうち、^{せっちゃくざい}接着剤でとめたように^{はな}離れなくなったのだった。

語 そのうち before long / 接着剤 setchakuzai adhesive; glue / とめたように as if attached / 離れなくなった hanare-naku natta became unable to detach

動 とめた ⇨ とめる / 離れなく ⇨ 離れない ⇨ 離れる hanareru / なった ⇨ なる / だった ⇨ だ

注 接着剤でとめたように setchakuzai de tometa yō ni means “as if stuck with adhesive.” / The の in 離れなくなったのだった shows that this sentence completes the explanation of why the slipper back in 5k was stuck to the floor.

5n

「まあ、^ち散らかってるけど、^{せいけつ}清潔よ。

語 まあ well; anyway / 散らかってるけど chirakatte 'ru kedo it's messy, but / 清潔 seiketsu clean; hygienic

動 散らかってる ⇨ 散らかっている ⇨ 散らかる chirakaru

注 散らかる means “to be messy; to have things scattered about.” People often use this word when apologizing to guests about a disorderly home. / 清潔 is close in meaning to 綺麗 kirei “clean; beautiful,” but while 綺麗 may emphasize the clean appearance of something, 清潔 focuses on its healthful, hygienic cleanliness. As with the ね in 3e, the sentence-ending particle よ immediately after the adjectival noun 清潔 is an indicator of women’s speech. A man would say 清潔だよ. A similar example of female usage is 平気 in 5p.

5o

^{ゆうきぶつ}有機物や^{しょうどくやく}細菌は、^あ消毒薬で^と拭き取ってる。

語 有機物 yūkibutsu organic matter / 細菌 bacteria / 拭き取ってる fukitotte 'ru I wipe away

動 拭き取ってる ⇨ 拭き取っている ⇨ 拭き取る fukitoru

注 拭き取る means “to wipe off; to wipe away.” / The subject of 拭き取ってる is the unspoken 私 watashi, meaning O子さん. / Note that 有機物 and 細菌 are the objects of the verb 拭き取ってる.

5p

たまご さいきん はんしよく くうき ちゆう きゆうみんじょう
卵から細菌が繁殖しても、空気中では休眠状態だから、こうすれば平気」といって、

語 細菌 saikin bacteria / 繁殖しても hanshoku shite mo even if (bacteria) propagate / 空気中では kūkichū de wa in the air / 休眠状態 kyūmin jōtai state of dormancy / こうすれば kō sureba if I do this / 平気 heiki okay, no problem / といっ to itte she said

動 繁殖して ⇨ 繁殖する hanshoku suru / すれば ⇨ する / いっ iu, yū 言う

注 平気 is used in speech to mean “there is no need to worry” or “I don’t care.” / Here, a man would more likely say 平気だ.

5q

ふんむ しょうどくやく
噴霧消毒薬のノズルをシューッと押したのだった。

語 噴霧消毒薬 funmu shōdoku-yaku disinfectant vaporizer / ノズル nozzle / シューッと (indicates the sound of disinfectant being sprayed) / 押した oshita pushed

動 押した ⇨ 押す osu / だった ⇨ だ

注 噴霧 literally means “spraying fog.” / The context suggests that 噴霧消毒薬 is the container for spraying the disinfectant, not the disinfectant itself. / The の in 押したのだった indicates that this sentence explains that こ

うすれば in 5p refers to O-ko’s spraying the air with disinfectant.

5r

ちなみに、O子さんは東北大学薬学部出身である。

語 ちなみに incidentally, by the way / 東北大学 Tōhoku Daigaku Tohoku University / 薬学部 Yakugaku-bu Faculty Pharmaceutical Sciences / 出身 shushin graduated from 注 東北大学 is a respected national university located in Sendai in northern Honshu. / In 4b, 出身地 shushin-chi meant “the place where one was raised.” Here, 出身 indicates the school from which O-ko graduated.

文 The point of this story is the contrast between O-ko’s extreme aversion to possible sources of infection in public and her slovenly, unhygienic lifestyle at home. But behind this humorous situation is the more serious theme of the nearly pathological fear of germs that seems to affect an increasing number of Japanese. Sales of pens, computer keyboards, and other products made with antibacterial plastics have been booming, and surveys have reported that a significant percentage of people, especially women, never use public rest rooms. While some scientists warn that it is futile and even counterproductive to try to avoid contact with microorganisms, the spread of AIDS and some food poisoning scares have only increased people’s fears. Despite these trends, though, O-ko’s case is still unusual.

6

ゼロ歳児にも及ぶ
受験戦争子守歌

EXAMINATION HELL LULLABIES FOR INFANTS

ST. PETERSBURG, FL 33733

6

ゼロ歳児にも及ぶ 受験戦争子守歌

受験戦争といえば、いまや中学校や小学校の時代である。

千葉に住むSちゃん、生後十一カ月の両親は、昨今の情勢に遅れてはならぬ、とさっそく準備を開始した。

母親の担当は“情操教育”。散歩の道すがら、
「ほら、あの女の子、隣の男の子に砂をかけてるでしょ。ダメよ、あんな子と付き合っちゃ」
「あっちのお母さんのお目め、不自然でしょ。きっと整形してる。ママみたいな自然の二重がいちばんなのよ」

といった調子で、言い聞かせている。

一方、お勉強担当の父親は、毎晩、^{まくらもと}枕元で最終目標の大学に向けて、「大学入学案内」や「大学の特色」を読み聞かせている。これをやると、Sちゃんは寝つきがいいそうだ。

EXAMINATION HELL LULLABIES FOR INFANTS

These days, “examination hell” begins as early as junior high school or elementary school.

In Chiba, the parents of Baby S, eleven months old, have already commenced preparations, determined not to fall behind the times.

The mother is in charge of “moral and aesthetic education.” While out for a walk, she lectures her son.

“Look!” she’ll say. “That girl is throwing sand on the boy next to her. Never make friends with anyone like that.”

“That mother’s eyes look funny, don’t they? I’m sure she had them fixed. It’s better to have eyes with two natural folds like mine.”

The father is in charge of the baby’s studies. Looking ahead to the boy’s ultimate admission to university, he reads college guidebooks at his son’s bedside every evening. He says the boy falls asleep better that way.

そんなある日、Sちゃんは一人で遊んでいて、入学案内をビリビリに破ってしまった。

がっかりした父親だったが、ちりぢりになった本を見て驚いた。なんと、父親の出身校、慶応大学のページだけは破れていなかったのだ。

で、息子の志望校は慶応と決め、まずは幼稚舎受験に全力を挙げることで夫婦の意見は一致。試験に輪投げがあったと聞いて、輪を握らせるのに必死になっている。

One day when Baby S was playing alone, he tore up one of the admission guidebooks.

The father was disappointed, but he was surprised when he saw the tattered book. Why, the only page left untouched was the one for Keio University, the father's alma mater!

So they decided that their son would aim for Keio. The parents agreed to focus all their efforts on the entrance exam for the university's nursery school. They've heard that the exam includes a ringtoss game, so they're doing everything they can to get their baby to wrap his fingers around a ring.

COMMENTARY

6a

Title: ゼロ歳児にも及ぶ受験戦争子守歌

語 ゼロ歳児 zero-sai-ji zero-year-old baby / にも及ぶ ni mo oyobu extending even to... / 受験戦争 juken sensō intense competition to pass entrance examinations; "examination hell" / 子守歌 komori-uta lullaby

注 In Japan, babies under the age of one are said to be ゼロ歳 zero-sai or 零歳 rei-sai "zero years old." / The word 受験 juken refers to studying for and taking examinations, especially college entrance tests. 戦争 sensō means "war." / A 子守歌 is a song sung to babies to put them to sleep. Here the word is used ironically. / This title literally means "Lullabies for Examination Hell, Which Now Reaches Even Infants Less Than a Year Old."

6b

受験戦争といえ、いまや中学校や小学校の時代である。

語 といえ to ieba concerning; in regard to; speaking of / いまや now / 中学校 chūgakkō junior high school / 小学校 shōgakkō elementary school / 時代 jidai era; age

動 いえ い 言 う iu, yū

注 といえ eba follows a subject that is already known or has been mentioned; it introduces information that is related (perhaps only tangentially) to that subject. Here, 受験戦争 is already known to the reader, and といえ eba indicates that the story that follows is somehow related to 受験戦争. / The point of this sentence is that high school students are no longer the only ones competing intensely to pass entrance examinations. Now junior high and elementary school students are also fighting the 受験戦争.

文 Japanese schools follow the six-three-three pattern introduced from the United States after the Second World War. 小学校 lasts for six years, followed by three years of 中学校 and three years of 高校 kōkō "high school."

6c

千葉に住むSちゃん、生後十一カ月の両親は、
昨今の情勢に遅れてはならぬ、とさっそく準備
を開始した。

語 千葉 Chiba prefecture and city east of Tokyo / 住む sumu to live; to reside / ちゃん (respect suffix used with children's names) / 生後十一カ月 seigo juikkagetsu eleven months after birth / 両親 ryōshin parents / 昨今の情勢 sakkon no jōsei the current situation / 遅れてはならぬ okurete wa naranu must not delay / さっそく promptly / 準備 junbi preparations / 開始した kaishi shita commenced

動 遅れて okureru 遅れる okureru / ならぬ (=ならない) naranu なる / 開始した kaishi suru 開始する

注 千葉 might be either 千葉市 Chiba-shi "Chiba City" or the larger 千葉県 Chiba-ken "Chiba Prefecture." / The ちゃん in Sちゃん is the version of さん used when addressing or talking about babies, children, and sometimes adults who are close friends or relatives, usually younger in age. Though ちゃん may be used for both males and females, it is more common with the latter. The equivalent suffix for males is 君 kun (see 3b). In this story, Sちゃん happens to be a boy (see 6c). / The quoting と after 昨今の情勢に遅れてはならぬ indicates that this sentence expresses the sentiments of S's parents, to wit, "we must not fall behind the times." / The final ぬ in ならぬ is the literary form of the negative suffix ない. The gerund (-te form) followed by either はならぬ wa naranu or はならない wa naranai means "must not." / Both 住む and 生後十一カ月 modify Sちゃん.

6d

ははおや たんとう じょうそうきょういく
母親の担当は“情操教育”。

語 母親 hahaoya mother / 担当 tantō (area of) responsibility / 情操教育 jōsō kyōiku moral and aesthetic education

注 情操教育 is a type of pedagogy that emphasizes the development of a child's overall sensitivity to moral, aesthetic, and spiritual matters. The quotation marks indicate that the term is being used sarcastically to refer to the less-than-lofty instruction provided by S's mother in 6e through 6i.

6e

さんぽ みち 散歩の道すがら、「ほら、あの女の子、隣おんな こ となり おとこの男の子こ すなに砂をかけてるでしょ。

語 散歩 sanpo walk; stroll / 道すがら michi sugara along the way / ほら hey! look! / あの女の子 ano onna no ko that girl / 隣の男の子に tonari no otoko no ko ni at the boy next to (her) / 砂 sunā sand / かけてるでしょ kakete 'ru desho is throwing (sand), isn't she?

動 かけてる ⇨ かけている ⇨ かける

注 散歩の道すがら means "while taking a walk." / でしょ is an abbreviated spoken form of でしょう, the formal volitional form of the copula だ. / The subject of かけて(いる) is あの女の子.

6f

ダメよ、あんな子と付き合っちゃ

語 ダメよ don't (do that) / あんな子と anna ko to with a child like that / 付き合っちゃ tsukiatcha (don't) be friends; (don't) spend time together

動 付き合っちゃ ⇨ 付き合っては tsukiatte wa ⇨ 付き合う tsukiau

注 The elements of this sentence have been reversed. In standard order and without the contraction to 付き合っちゃ, it would read あんな子と付き合ってはダメよ "Don't be friends with a girl like that." / A man would say ダメ

だよ instead of ダメよ. / Here ダメ is in katakana for emphasis. Also written だめ or 駄目, this word means "forbidden; no good; worthless."

6g

「あっちのお母さんのお目め、不自然でしょ。」

語 あっちのお母さん atchi no okāsan that mother over there / お目め o-meme eyes / 不自然 fushizen unnatural

注 あっち is an informal version of あちら "that; over there." / お目め is a word used only by or to small children. Other children's words include お手て o-tete "hand," わんわん "dog," and ふうふう "automobile."

6h

きっと整形してる。ママみたいな自然の二重がいちばんなのよ」

語 きっと certainly; I'm sure / 整形してる seikei shite 'ru she's had plastic surgery / ママみたいな Mama mitai na like Mama's / 自然の shizen no natural / 二重 futae folded (eyelids) / いちばん the best

動 整形してる ⇨ 整形している ⇨ 整形する seikei suru

注 整形 can refer to any type of surgery or treatment that changes the shape of a part of a person's body. / Note that S's mother says ママ when talking about herself. When speaking to children, Japanese adults often refer to themselves by name or title rather than with a first-person pronoun. Similarly, children usually refer to themselves by name until they reach school age, when girls are supposed to start saying 私 watashi and boys 僕 boku for "I; me." / 二重 here refers to 二重瞼 futae mabuta "double eyelids," that is, eyelids with a horizontal crease.

文 Most East Asians have 一重瞼 hitoe mabuta "single eyelids," that is, eyelids without a visible fold. Some Japanese who admire European facial features undergo a simple operation to add creases to their eyelids. Here, S's mother is sneering at another mother for having had that operation while bragging that her own eyelids are naturally the fashionable creased type. She may also be warning her infant son to avoid potential marriage partners who alter their appearance artificially.

6i

といった調子で、言い聞かせている。

語 といった調子で to itta chōshi de in this manner / 言い聞かせている iikikasete iru instructs

動 いった ⇨ 言う iu, yū / 言い聞かせて ⇨ 言い聞かせる iikikaseru

法 This sentence's initial と is the quoting と. It refers to the quotations from the mother in 6e through 6h. / 言い聞かせる means "to instruct" or "to convince." Here it seems to suggest that eleven-month-old S is actually paying attention to what his mother is saying.

6j

いっほう べんきょうたんとう ちちおや まいばん まくらもと さい
 一方、お勉強担当の父親は、毎晩、枕元で最
 しゅうもくひょう だいがく む だいがくにゅうがくあんない
 終目標の大学に向けて、「大学入学案内」や
 にゅうがく とくしよく よ き
 「入学の特色」を読み聞かせている。

語 一方 ippō meanwhile; on the other hand / お勉強担当の o-benkyō tantō in charge of study / 父親 chichioya father / 毎晩 maiban every evening / 枕元で makuramoto de at (S's) bedside / 最終目標 saishū mokuryō final goal; ultimate target / 大学 daigaku university / に向けて ni mukete directed toward; aiming at / 「大学入学案内」 Daigaku Nyūgaku Annai "Guide to University Admissions" / 「入学の特色」 Nyūgaku no Tokushoku "Key Features of Admissions" / 読み聞かせている yomikikasete iru reads to

動 読み聞かせて ☞ 読み聞かせる yomikikaseru

注 お勉強 has the prefix お because the word refers to a child's studies. / The 枕 makura in 枕元 means "pillow," and 枕元 literally means "next to the pillow." / 最終目標の大学 refers to the university that the parents want S to enter. / 大学入学案内 and 入学の特色 are commercially published guides to techniques for entering certain universities. 特色 means "unique characteristics." / 読み聞かせる means "to read to" or "to instruct through reading."

6k

これをやると、^{エス}Sちゃんは寝つきがいいそうだ。

語 これをやると kore o yaru to when (the father) does this / 寝つきがいい netsuki ga ii falls asleep well / そうだ sō da is said to 注 これ refers to the father's reading to S. / The noun 寝つき "falling asleep" comes from the verb 寝つく netsuku "to fall asleep." / The word そう indicates reported speech. Here, it means that the parents have said that S falls sound asleep when they read the university admission books to him.

6l

そんなある日、^{エス}Sちゃんは^{ひとり}一人で^{あそ}遊んでいて、 にゅうがくあんない
 入学案内を^{やぶ}ビリビリに破ってしまった。

語 そんなある日 sonna aru hi on one such day / 一人で遊んでいて hitori de asonde ite was playing alone / ビリビリに破ってしまった biribiri ni yabutte shimatta tore up

動 遊んでいて ☞ 遊ぶ asobu / 破って ☞ 破る yaburu / しまった ☞ しまう

注 Both そんな and ある modify 日. そんな日 means "such a day" and ある日 means "one day, on a certain day," so そんなある日 means "on one such day (during the baby's training for university admission)." / 入学案内 Nyūgaku Annai is the same as 大学入学案内 in 6j. / ビリビリに破る means "to tear up; to tear into shreds." ビリビリに suggests that the baby tore up the book especially violently.

6m

がっかりした^{ちちおや}父親だったが、ちりちりになった
本^{ほん}を見て^み驚いた^{おどろ}。

語 がっかりした gakkari shita disappointed / ちりちりにな った本 chirijiri ni natta hon the book, which had been scattered around in pieces / 見て mite when he saw / 驚 いた odorota he was surprised

動 がっかりした ⇨ がっかりする gakkari suru / だった
⇨ だ / なった ⇨ なる / 見て ⇨ 見る miru / 驚いた
⇨ 驚く odoroku

注 The unspoken subject of this sentence is 父親, which is the same as the predicate noun in the first half of the sentence. Thus the first half can be translated literally as “He was a disappointed father.”

6n

なんと、父親^{ちちおや}の出身校^{しゅっしんこう}、慶応大学^{けいおうだいがく}のページだけ
は破^{やぶ}れていなかったのだ。

語 なんと nan to (expresses pleased surprise) / 出身校
shussinkō alma mater / 慶応大学のページだけ Keiō
Daigaku no pēji dake only the page for Keio University /
破れていなかった yaburete inakatta was not torn up

動 破れて ⇨ 破れる yabureru / いなかった ⇨ いない ⇨ いる

注 As in 5r, 出身 shussin means “graduated from.” 校 is an abbreviation for 学校 gakkō “school.” Thus 出身校 means “the school from which one graduated.” / The appositive comma after 出身校 indicates that the school in question is 慶応大学. / The の at the end of this sentence explains that the father was surprised in 6m because only the page for Keio University was not torn up.

文 Keio University is an old and respected private university in Tokyo. It was founded by 福沢諭吉 Fukuzawa Yu- kichi (1834–1901), the educator, philosopher, and diplomat whose face appears on the 10,000-yen note. The university’s full name is 慶応義塾大学 Keiō Gijuku Daigaku. 慶 応 is the era name for the years 1865 to 1868.

6o

で、息子^{むすこ}の志望校^{しぼうこう}は慶応^{けいおう}と決め、まずは幼稚園^{ようちんしゃ}
受験^{じゅけん}に全力^{ぜんりょく}を挙^あげることで夫婦^{ふうふ}の意見^{いけん}は一致^{いちち}。

語 で then; therefore / 息子 musuko son / 志望校 shibōkō
(see 注, below) / 慶応と決め Keiō to kime decided on Keio / まずは mazu wa first; to begin with / 幼稚園
Yōchishū name of nursery school / 全力を挙げることで zenryoku o ageru koto de to make a total effort / 夫婦 fūfu the husband and wife / 意見 iken opinions / 一致 ichi matched; agreed

動 決め ⇨ 決める kimeru

注 志望 shibō means “aspiration and desire,” so 息子の志望
校 means “the school their son would try to enter.” / 幼 稚舎受験 means “taking the nursery school entrance exams.” 幼稚舎 is a nursery school affiliated with Keio

University and famous for its rigorous admittance standards. A child accepted by this nursery school is likely to be admitted to the university more easily. / The omitted verb at the end of this sentence is した. 夫婦の意見は一致した means "the opinions of the husband and wife were the same."

6p

試験しけんに輪わ投げながあったと聞いてき、輪わを握にぎらせる
のひっしに必死ひっしになっている。

語 試験 shiken test / 輪投げ wanage ringtoss / と聞いて to kiite they heard that / 輪 wa ring / 握らせるの nigiraseru no making him grasp / 必死になっている hisshi ni natte iru (they are) frantic

動 あった ⇨ ある / 聞いて ⇨ 聞く kiku / 握らせる ⇨ 握る niguru / なって ⇨ なる

注 輪投げ is the children's game in which a ring made of rope, wood, or plastic is thrown from a distance onto a vertical pole. It is the type of game that might be included in a nursery school entrance examination. / 握らせる is the causative form of the verb 握る "to grasp; to hold." An eleven-month-old baby is too young to play ringtoss, so the parents are just trying to get him to wrap his fingers around the rings. / The の after 握らせる is the nominalizing の; it turns 握らせる into a noun.

文 While some people will be amused by the misplaced fervor of this mother and father eagerly trying to prepare their infant son for university entrance exams, for many Japanese parents this story may strike uncomfortably close to home. Among Japanese who fall into the broad social class of salaried white-collar workers—company employees, civil servants, academics, and the like—admission to a good university determines more than anything else one's career, social standing, and marriage prospects. Parents whose own lives have been shaped by this obsession with educational credentials are naturally eager for their own children to enter the best possible schools. The parents in this story are unusual not in the degree of their enthusiasm but only in how early they have begun.

フ

バン国目指す
コネ社員もうまいの無知蒙昧

*THE CLUELESSNESS OF
A "CONNECTED" EMPLOYEE
ON HER WAY TO THE "COUNTRY OF BAN"*

ST. PETERSBURG, FL 33733

バン国目指す
もうまい コネ社員の無知蒙昧

都内の大手出版社に勤務するK嬢（二四）ほか同期の女性四人は、入社五年目を記念して、この春、一緒に海外旅行をする計画を立てた。

候補地はいろいろ出たが、日数と予算から、シンガポールかタイのバンコク、ということで話はまとまった。

翌日、K嬢は、会社の帰りに覗いた旅行代理店で、まさに理想的な日程と金額のタイのツアーを見つけ、とりあえず独断で予約を入れておいた。

翌朝。仲間の一人のY嬢を見かけると、K嬢はさっそく、その件を報告した。

「いいのがあったのよ。勝手にタイのツアーを申し込んじゃったけれど、いいわよね」

THE CLUELESSNESS OF
A "CONNECTED" EMPLOYEE
ON HER WAY TO THE "COUNTRY OF BAN"

This spring, Miss K (24) and three other women, her peers at a large publishing company in Tokyo, planned to take an overseas trip in honor of their fifth year since entering the company.

They discussed various destinations, but considering the available time and their budget, they settled on either Singapore or Bangkok, Thailand.

The next day, Miss K stopped at a travel agency on her way home from work and found a tour to Thailand with the ideal schedule and price. She went ahead and made the reservation.

The following morning, Miss K spotted one of the group, Miss Y, and immediately told her what she had done.

"I found a good tour, so I went ahead and signed us up for Thailand. That's okay, isn't it?"

Y嬢は意外な顔をし、軽い非難の調子を込めて答えた。

「あら、タイにしたの？バンコクじゃなかったの」

「えっ、だってバンコクはタイの首都だけど……」

「首都？えーっ、だってタイの首都はラオスでしょう。バンコクってコクがつくから国の名前じゃないの？」

「……」

Y嬢は生まれてこの方、二十四年間、バンコクはバンという国、つまり“バン国”と信じて疑わなかったのである。

(同期入社的女性社員に、一人だけ縁故採用者がいるという噂、本当だったんだ……)

入社五年目にして、K嬢は噂の真偽を確信したのだった。

Miss Y looked surprised and replied in a somewhat critical tone, "What? Did you decide on Thailand? Weren't we going to Bangkok?"

"Huh? But Bangkok is the capital of Thailand...."

"The capital? But the capital of Thailand is Laos, isn't it? Bankoku ends in koku, so it must be the name of a country."

Miss K said nothing.

For the twenty-four years of her life, Miss Y had been convinced that the name Bangkok meant the "Country of Ban."

Miss K thought, The rumor that one of the women hired with us got her job through a connection—I guess it was true after all.

In her fifth year since joining the company, Miss K has now confirmed the truth of that rumor.